THE PROBLEM OF TRUANCY

Keeping Truants Out Of Justice System

By TERRY DAVENPORT

YOUTHS in San Mateo County are much better informed than their parents about new laws that deal with truants more leniently, according to school administrators and juvenile officers.

"Kids know that a lot isn't going to happen if they cut school," said Andrew McCarthy, vice principal — administration at Oceana High School in Pacifica.

Recent changes in the California Welfare Institution Code and the Education Code are aimed at keeping truants out of the criminal justice system by dealing with the problem in the school and community. They also prevent truants from being locked up for any length of time.

IN THE PAST, habitual truants faced the possibility of being placed on probation or in a day-care program or rehabilitation program, such as Camp Glenwood — where they mingled with juvenile offenders guilty of law violations ranging from shoplifting to armed robbery.

By definition in the Education Code, a student who cuts classes three times is a "truant." One who cuts a fourth time is a "habitual truant." But, truants who are called onto the carpet usually have cut many more times than school officials have detected.

"Parents for the most part are shocked, outraged and absolutely baffled by provisions of the law which, essentially, gives their child the opportunity to misbehave," said Jay Conover, probation supervisor of the San Mateo County Juvenile Department.

Local police are pleased with the new laws. They report that more parents are handling their wayward children without involving them.

WITH SCHOOLS also intervening, the new laws have had the desired effect of substantially reducing the number of juveniles being referred by the 56 high schools in San Mateo County to the County Probation Department. Compared to 152 referrals during the 1973-74 school year, there were 106 referrals in 1974-75 and only 28 referrals in 1975-76.

The lower numbers reflect a change in the Welfare Institution Code that became effective Jan. 1, 1975. Under the new law, resources within the truant's school district and community must be exhausted before the case is referred to the probation department.

According to Williard Oates, director of the Juvenile Division of the Probation Department, the only cases now referred "are brought into the coercive authority of the justice system only when all else has failed.

If procedures within the school don't resolve the problem, the truant must appear before a School Attendance Review Board.

There are 10 SARBs in the county. Each includes representatives from the Probation Department, the Department of Social Services, the Department of Mental Health, County Schools Department, a representative from the high school district and a parent, usually from the local Parent-Teacher Association.

There is also a county SARB that sets policy and doesn't hear cases.

After the truant's case is presented by his school, SARB comes up with a plan to deal with the truancy problem, utilizing services available in the community.

"THE ALTERNATIVES have always been available. In a way, it's embarrassing. Things that should have been done are now being done," noted Conover.

Those alternatives include counseling by county mental health bureaus, youth services bureaus and the local YMCA, or vocational education pro-

Proposal to Ease 'Commuter Parker' Problem Advanced

Residents of portions of the Vista Grande, Westlake and Crocker areas of Daly City soon may have preferential parking privileges in their neighborhoods.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis Monday night presented a proposal to Daly City's City Council which aims at "eliminating the commuter parker" in city residential areas.

Kyriakis, Mayor Albert Teglia and Councilman McRobert Stewart served on a committee which has spent three months developing a proposal for preferential parking. Neighborhood representatives also have been involved.

The council unanimously voted Monday to instruct the city staff to draw up a preferential parking ordinance for future consideration.

"Commuters that use the Daly City BART station consume almost all of the available on-street parking in the Vista Grande tract and eastern portion of Westlake," Kyriakis explained.

Similar problems exist in the Mission Street area and, to a lesser extent, around Westmoor High School in the Edgemont area, he added.

Because of a state Assembly bill which has been approved, a city may designate preferential parking privileges where a serious problem exists, council members pointed out.

The proposal would restrict parking in designated areas from 5 to 10 a.m. Only vehicles bearing permits would be allowed to park in restricted areas during the prime morning commute hours.

Kyriakis noted committee recommendations for the proposed ordinance include the following:

• A provision that one-third of the residents of the designated areas desire the ordinance.

• A recommendation that permits be limited to registered cars at each designated address.

• A suggestion that the permit be color-cued to the specific neighborhood designated.

• That enforcement provisions include a warning during the first week of posting and a $10 fine per violation to follow.

• A suggestion that four signs per block be posted.

Stewart noted that the committee is requesting increased cooperation with Westmoor High School officials in an attempt to resolve the parking problem in the Edgemont neighborhood.

He explained that a number of "undesirable students" park on the street rather than in the school lot because they don't want their departures from school grounds observed.

Stewart said the committee recommended that the situation be given two months to improve before preferential parking steps are taken.

Kyriakis said the proposed ordinance would be "relatively easy to enforce. If the car doesn't have a permit, the officer will tag it."

City officials estimate the proposal would cost $16,000, most of it for new signs.

Kyriakis said he doubts police surveillance will have to be increased significantly.

Citizens Attempt To Alter DCCCS

Parents, neighborhood organizations and concerned citizens crowded into the War Memorial Building in Daly City on Monday night to offer opinions about the Daly City Community for Children's Services.

They were responding to the City Council's call to give the day care center new membership and direction.

But though there were new members present and three new directors, it was obvious that Rev. Raymond M. Howard is holding the reins on the project.

Complaints about the DCCCS in recent months have centered around the firing of its directors, Anne Cooper, by Reverend Howard.

The board has also come under fire for having three of its board members related and a fourth related to a center employe.

Conrad Pavellas, chairman of the Original Daly City Protective Association, made the first motion, calling for a special order of business to allow the newly enrolled members elect directors.

Elected were Ernest Pezzola as second vice president, Beverly Forrester third vice president, and Pavallas as treasurer.

The case of Anne Cooper was on the agenda. She had won her case for two weeks' severance pay and Reverend Howard had ordered the decision appealed. On a motion by Pavellas, the appeal was dropped and a compromise of $380 was offered in settlement.

The attorney who had handled her case, Charles Blagburn, had submitted a bill of $1,050. Of this, he donated half to the center. The remaining $525 was voted to be paid and the attorney to be discharged.

May 9 DC Hearing on Water Use Ordinance

By NANCY STANCILL

A public hearing on a proposed water rationing ordinance for Daly City was scheduled for May 9 Monday night by the City Council.

The proposed ordinance, based on a model of the Bay Area Water Users Association, calls for a general 25 per cent cutback on water usage in Daly City. Enforcement procedure includes installation of restrictor devices.

As the City Council set the public hearing date, several residents came forth to complain of instances of water waste in the city.

Ernie Pezzola told the council that his check of a large number of schools revealed "urinals that flush automatically every three to five minutes.

"That's an awful lot of water being wasted when you're asking citizens to conserve," Pezzola said.

City Manager David Rowe told Pezzola that the Jefferson Elementary School District and the Jefferson Union High School District would be contacted on the matter.

"I'm sure they will cooperate," he said, noting that the automatic flushing device can be readjusted or removed.

Another resident urged the council to reconsider a ban on fireworks suggested by county fire officials as a water saving measure. The officials contend that fireworks are responsible for a considerable number of county fires.

Council members several weeks ago agreed to consider the fireworks ban next year, but said permits for fireworks sales have already been issued to community groups this year.

"How about people who have been conserving water for years and years?" Marie Taylor asked.

"God bless them," smiled Mayor Albert Teglia, who praised the water conservation efforts that have resulted in a 27 per cent current drop in usage.

In other business, council:

• Appointed Richard Silver to the City Planning Commission. Silver won out over nominees Susan Sweeney, Lowell Durham, Beatrice Jackson and 11 other applicants.

• Accepted the resignation of another Planning Commission member, Ernest Molinari, who has moved from the area. The council will appoint a second new member May 9.

YOUTH ART ON DISPLAY

Daly City City Hall has been transformed into an art gallery, showing works by youngsters from kindergarten through high school, through April 27. Jefferson Elementary School District has exhibits on the main floor. Upstairs are pieces by students from nine other North County school districts. The long panels hanging over the balcony are replicas of Mexican "amates," usually painted on bark. They were made by sixth graders at JF Kennedy School in Daly City.

Broadmoor Police Will Seek Talks With Colma

Broadmoor's Police Commission voted unanimously Friday to set up a meeting with Colma officials to discuss a police services contract with Colma's Police Department.

Commissioner Dean Davenport, who was delegated to meet with Colma representatives along with two members of the Police Commission's citizens Advisory Committee, said he would arrange the meeting as soon as possible.

Commissioner Wayne Johnson urged negotiations with Colma as an alternative to the discussions which have begun with Daly City officials over the question of providing police services to Broadmoor.

Johnson emphasized that "my number one objective is keeping the Broadmoor Police Department" but said if it isn't financially feasible to return to an independent operation, Colma services would be preferable to Daly city.

Since Jan. 1, Daly City's Police Department has been supervising Broadmoor police services under an administrative contract. The arrangement was made when the Broadmoor Department lost its liability insurance.

The six-month contract is up June 30 and Broadmoor must either negotiate another contract with a jurisdiction or find insurance coverage.

At Friday's meeting, Johnson again made a motion that the Police Commission designate Gregory Gomaroto of Foster City as the commission's insurance agent.

Gomaroto has offered to find insurance coverage for Broadmoor for $24,500 "or possibly less," Johnson noted. The offer is good for several weeks longer.

For the second meeting in a row, Johnson's motion died for lack of a second.

Commission Chairman John McCloskey said the Gomaroto offer is "premature," since the commission has not obtained estimates on police services costs from either Daly City or Colma.

He noted that the com-

One Dead, Eight Hurt in County Accidents

Michael Harris, 29, of 1963 Turk St., San Francisco, succumbed Friday night in the intensive care unit of Mary's Help Hospital to injuries suffered Monday while he was hitchhiking in the fog at the intersection of Cabrillo Highway and Skyline Boulevard in Daly City.

According to coroner's investigators, Harris suffered the fatal injuries when he was struck by a car. The driver was not identified.

In other accidents, a 44-year-old Millbrae man escaped injury but his passenger was hurt when their Volkswagen sheared off a 20-foot-high traffic sign on State Highway 92 at Delaware Avenue in San Mateo early today, according to the California Highway Patrol. The car also hit a guard rail and bounced down a 40-foot embankment to Concar Drive, investigators reported.

It was one of six accidents injuring eight persons at the beginning of the Easter weekend.

CHP officer M.D. Lang reported that Patrick James O'Leary of 423 Green Hills Drive, Millbrae, escaped injury in the spectacular accident at 4:30 a.m., but his passenger, Kenneth McGarvey, 47, of San Francisco, was taken to Chope Community Hospital with injuries.

Siu Ching Leong, 56, of 2707 Jefferson Ave., Redwood City, was seriously injured when her auto smashed into a light standard at K Mart on Veterans Boulevard after a wild ride

Bookmaking Charged in DC Arrest

Joseph M. Sarra, 39, of Daly City, has been arrested by police on a bookmaking charges.

Sarra, of 30 Poncetta Drive, Apt. 323, was released on $1,000 bail, according to Daly City police.

Authorities, conducting an investigation into alleged bookmaking, obtained a search warrant and said they found bookmaking paraphernalia at Sarra's residence last Friday.

Police estimate Sarra had a $300 a day operation.

Pacifica OKs Cabs, Stalls Child Care

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Taxicab service glided into action, a child care proposal stalled and Free 'Dump Day was put off at the Pacifica City Council meeting Monday.

The council showed rare accord, voting 5-0 on every measure.

In an emergency ordinance, the council paved the way for Daly City Yellow Cab Co. to begin immediate service in Pacifica, charging the same rates it charges Daly City customers.

Those rates are 80 cents when the flag drops and 20 cents for each quarter mile or 1½ minutes of waiting time.

The council repealed a Pacifica Municipal Code provision that regulated — and inhibited — taxicabs in the city.

Daly City Yellow Cab agreed to give Pacifica advance notice if it ever changes its rate structure for all customers.

Plans for rehabilitating the quonset hut at Pomo Park as a child care facility hit another snag when the council learned that $2,000 and at least five weeks would be required before bids on the job could go out.

Stephen Street, city director of community development and services, explained that there were time-consuming problems in seeking federal funding for the project and in preparing specifications so bids could be made.

"This was before us in July and here it is April," Councilman Nick Gust said.

"I think we should do some high stepping here and see if we can't get this project off the ground," Councilman Mark Savage remarked.

The audience applauded.

He continued "I wish someone would do some staff work on this. I'm angry about this. I don't know how the hell you're going to get any work done. You're probably going to keep it in your office another three weeks."

City Manager Donald Weidner defended the staff, saying "This staff told you a year ago that this project had more problems than were initially obvious. I think staff could get a little angry, too." He said the staff was having trouble coping with nine fewer people due to cutbacks.

The council voted to appropriate $2,000 from revenue sharing funds to reimburse an architect or engineer for the project, earmarking up to $750 for writing the job specifications.

These specifications must be drawn up before companies can bid on the project.

Gust pointed out that most of the $2,000 would be reimbursed if the council decided, after considering the bids, that the project was too expensive to pursue.

Money was again the stalemate when Mario Torrigino of Coastside Scavenger Co. asked the council to fund half of the estimated $4,000 to $4,500 that the upcoming Free Dump Day on April 30 would cost his company.

Coastside Scavenger has picked up the tab in past years, but Torrigino balked at the April 30 date because that isn't a regular clean-up day and he would have to pay five workers overtime.

One suggestion to charge $1 per carload ran amuck when councilmen disagreed on whether a sliding rate for different-sized vehicles was necessary.

Torrigino also asked that he be permitted to issue permits at his office, rather than through the fire and police departments, so that he could control who is dumping.

Upon learning from City Atty. Gloria Scheid and Widner that there is no clear provision for such a service in the city's contract with the scavengers, the council voted to postpone Free Dump Day until the project could be discussed further.

In less weighty matters, the council:

• Proclaimed this week as Miss Pacifica Week and April 16 as Miss Pacifica Day. Festivities will be Saturday at Terra Nova High School.

• Proclaimed April 17-23 Private Property Week.

• Decided to call for bids from private contractors for weed abatement.

• Voted to contact Caltrans for upgrading the safety of Route 1 in Pacifica. Councilwoman Janice Fulford said "It's time to nag, nag, nag. I think we ought to solicit help from Half Moon Bay in helping to nag." The council agreed, alluding to the theory that "the squeaky wheel gets the grease."

• Passed a resolution of commendation commemorating five years of service by Berneice Olson as stenographer at public meetings.

"It was a complete surprise," said the delighted Mrs. Olson.

Assessor's Phones Ring

Reassessment notices were sent out Monday and today to some 154,000 county residences and businesses which are being advised that the assessed value of their property has increased about 23 per cent over last year.

"The phones here are ringing off the hook," County Assessor Jack Estes reported this morning.

Estes said his office has installed some 15 telephones to answer questions of residents concerned with the increased assessments.

His office, Estes said, received 124 calls Monday. He said he expects hundreds more today.

Estes said the most common question has been, "How much are my taxes going to go up?"

And the assessor said office workers have been told to explain that it is not the assessor who raises the taxes but the individual taxing agencies, which set the tax rate.

The current mailings are the first and largest batch of notices the Assessor's Office will send out. Other mailings will go out in May and June.

Last month Estes warned that preliminary data showed that the appraisal of all real property, including residential, commercial and industrial, but not personal property, is up 23.8 per cent.

He projected at that time about a 30 to 35 per cent average increase in the reassessment of single-family homes.

Last year, Estes reported, the increase in all real property was 4.1 per cent over the previous year. But last year, he explained, no single-family real property was reassessed because of a freeze ordered by the Board of Supervisors.

This year, the assessor said his office reappraised all property by physical inspection in 10 of the 19 county cities.

Property in the other nine cities was reassessed by what Estes called "trending." He explained that in the trended cities reappraisals were made by using real state sales figures in determining the increase in the inflationary value of property.

The March reassessment figures showed that increases are highest in the cities of Woodside, Portola Valley, Hillsborough, Daly City, Brisbane, Pacifica and San Mateo.

Property in those cities, all of which was physically inspected, increased in assessed value from 31.89 to 50.14 per cent.

Estes said his office would man the newly installed phones "for as long as they are needed." But he estimated that telephone activity should subside in about two weeks.

through the parking lot, Redwood City police reported.

Witnesses said she pulled out of a parking row near the center of the store, headed east at 34 to 45 miles per hour, almost hit a curb and oncoming car and then jumped a curb near the southern end of the parking lot and crashed into the pole. They said she appeared terrified, and Officer Don Kerr said it was possible the accelerator may have been stuck. She was hospitalized at Kaiser Foundation Hospital with multiple fractures.

Dan H. Gulley, 41, of San Francisco, was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital with injuries suffered when his homemade racing motorcycle and an auto driven by Geradyne June Jurgensen, 45, of 1701 Lexington Ave., San Mateo, collided on Skyline Boulevard just north of Bunker Hill Drive about 12:20 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

John Martindale, 26, of San Jose, was injured when he lost control of his motorcycle on State Highway 92 at El Camino Real in San Mateo and was thrown into the ice plant, Highway Patrolman Tom McGuire reported. He was taken to Mills Hospital with a back injury.

Bruce Allan Vontersch, 17, of 1910 Belmont Ave., San Carlos, was knocked unconscious and suffered head injuries in a head-on collision involving a driver arrested for drunken driving on Oak Knoll Drive west of Redwood City about 11 p.m.' Friday.

Officer C.H. Nalley reported that Vontersch was a passenger in an auto driven by Derek Wayne Bailey, 18, of Sunnyvale, which collided with an auto driven by William Lucian Petralli, 25, of Boulder Creek. Bailey was arrested for felony drunken driving. Vontersch was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

Three Peninsula young people were hurt this morning when a car in which they were riding struck a tree near the intersection of Crystal Springs Road and El Cerrito in Hillsborough.

All three — Allison Henry, 16, of 316 Vallejo in Millbrae, Lisa Boyd, 16, of 360 Vallejo in Millbrae and Michael Etchison, 22, of 1662 S. Grant in San Mateo — were reported to be in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo this morning. All are suffering from multiple fractures, according to a spokesman at the hospital.

Acccording to the report from the Hillsborough Police Department, the accident occurred at 2:42 a.m. today.

Free Clean Up in DC

The week of April 23 thru May 1 has been designated as "Clean-Up Week" by the City of Daly City and the Scavenger Company in Daly City. The refuse disposal area will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily for the free use of all residents.

The refuse area is located on the coast near Mussel Rock, at the southernmost end of Skyline Drive.

The Daly City Scavenger Company asks that residents dump the trash in the designated area. An attendant will be on duty to direct the residents to the proper site. Proof of residency will be required.

The past few years have been the biggest years yet for the annual campaign aimed at eliminating fire hazards in and around homes and for generally sprucing up the city.

Vehicles of all shapes and sizes have pulled into the oceanside dumping ground depositing tons upon tons of refuse.

Sponsors of the event, besides the Scavengers, are the Chamber of Commerce and the Fire Department, with the backing of local merchants and homeowners associations.

Truants

grams and specific services set up to deal with such problems as drug addiction and alcoholism.

The burden for preparing the case falls upon the student's school. "A well documented case takes about 20 working hours to prepare," said McCarthy.

His school, Oceana, is one of several that have instituted "mini-SARBs" in order to pare the number of cases brought before the regional board. At a mini-SARB, the truant student meets with his parents and the school staff, who all agree on a contract that the student and his parents then sign.

A change in the Education Code that became effective Jan. 1, 1977 does not permit runaway incorrigibles, such as truants, to be maintained in a secured setting.

As a result, parents are forced to deal with their wayward children.

"I THINK THIS HAS some really healthy connotations. Parents are going to have to take more control," said James Cokas, coordinator of student attendance and welfare of the San Mateo Union High School District.

Parents of a habitual truant used to be able to call police and tell them to place the truant in close custody in juvenile hall.

In compliance with the new law, juvenile hall now has an unlocked facility, the Crisis Resolution Home. Truants who are taken there can walk out before their parents arrive to take them home.

"Without a doubt, the thing that plagues us the most often is the incorrigible kid. (The new laws) force the parents to deal with the situation," said Det. Patrick Sullivan, juvenile officer of the South San Francisco Police Department.

Counselors and school officials have mixed feelings about the law that prevents locking up truants.

Ed Martin of the Pacifica Youth Service Bureau said, "I don't think a kid who cuts school should be locked up."

ON THE OTHER hand, Martin said, "Some kids could benefit from a locked facility."

Another counselor at the Pacifica Youth Service Bureau, Don Nikkel, explained, "If a kid is as big as his parents, 15 to 16 years old, probably nothing's going to work."

The Pacifica Youth Service Bureau was selected by the probation department even years ago as a pilot project. It has been so successful in dealing with problem youths that six more youth service bureaus have been started in the county within the last two years. All work closely with school administrators and police.

One way around the no-lock-up rule has been introduced by Assemblyman Alister McAlister (D-San Jose). His bill would allow continuing status offenders, such as habitual truants, to be secured in facilities separate from those of criminal offenders.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS such as Cokas and McCarthy support McAlister's bill, but Oates is noncommittal. "January was the first month that we had the new procedure (of no lock-up). I'm not prepared to say at this time what should be changed, if anything," he said.

"Personally, I think the new laws are excellent," said Conover. "They're ideas that need to be tried."

What is the solution to the continuing problem of truancy?

"For most kids probation isn't the answer. With kids who cut classes, there are usually other problems besides school — problems at home," said Martin. He suggests a change of scene for many truants — getting a job or moving to another area.

Cokas believes, "We must convince the student that school is important. There is a group out there that finds education is really not their bag. Perhaps we should allow them to explore more areas."

SOME POLICE departments have instituted a "get tough" policy on youths walking the streets during regular school hours.

"It's our policy to continue picking up kids on the street and returning them to school. That's consistent with the policy we had before the new laws went into effect," said Det. Sullivan. There has been a significant drop in the number of daytime burglaries since South San Francisco police began that policy he noted.

ONE SCHOOL administrator had the ultimate solution.

"I would go so far as to suggest, why can't we combine dollars for education and pay students to go to school. We lose $14.30 per kid per day. It would be good business to pay each kid a couple of those dollars. Don't mention my name," he said.

Colma

mission hopes to meet with Daly city next week.

A Daly City meeting had been set up for April 7, but it was cancelled by the commission this week.

McCloskey noted that holding the meeting might have constituted a violation of the state's Brown Act, regarding open governmental meetings since he and Davenport felt it should be closed to the public.

Johnson, however, had asked for an opinion from the San Mateo County's district Attorney's office, saying he favored open negotiations.

The District Attorney's office ruled that the Brown Act would apply if a majority of the commission and advisory committee met with Daly City officials, so Davenport said a minority would meet and it would remain legally closed.

During the Friday commission meeting, Broadmoor Police Chief Bill Beard said he has polled the division's eight personnel about their feelings towards the present arrangement with Daly City.

Beard reported that all but one officer said they preferred the present arrangement to the previous working conditions in the independent Broadmoor department.

Theis Takes 1st Place

By MYLENE SCHWIMMER

Jim Theis, Serramonte High School's Student Body President, recently won first place in the Bank of America Achievement Award zone finals in the math and science category.

By winning this phase of competition, Jim has assured himself of a $250 scholarship and has earned the right to move on to compete in the Bank of America Regional Finals where he will compete with other students in the West Bay Area for up to $1,000.

Jim and the other students will be judged on the basis of a written composition, group discussion, scholarship and civic and school activities.

TIA SPEROS, also a competitor in the Bank of America zone finals, received third place and an award of $75 for her performance in the Fine Arts category.

Another Serramonte student, Lorraine Bonnici, was awarded fourth place for vocational arts.

SSF Woman Testifies Re: SFO Expansion

A South San Francisco woman told a Congressional subcommittee in Washington, D.C., this week of area residents' concerns that expansion of San Francisco International Airport will result in a major increase in aircraft noise.

Kathleen Van Velsor, a member of Airport Impact Reduction Force (AIR Force), said before the House Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Subcommittee that her group "can only look with exasperation at the kinds of activities going on" at the airport.

"Our major problem has been federal action that encourages facilities expansion when there is a limited amount of (noise) source control for airplanes," Ms. Van Velsor stated.

"There never has been a balance between the need for facilities planning and the human element," she asserted.

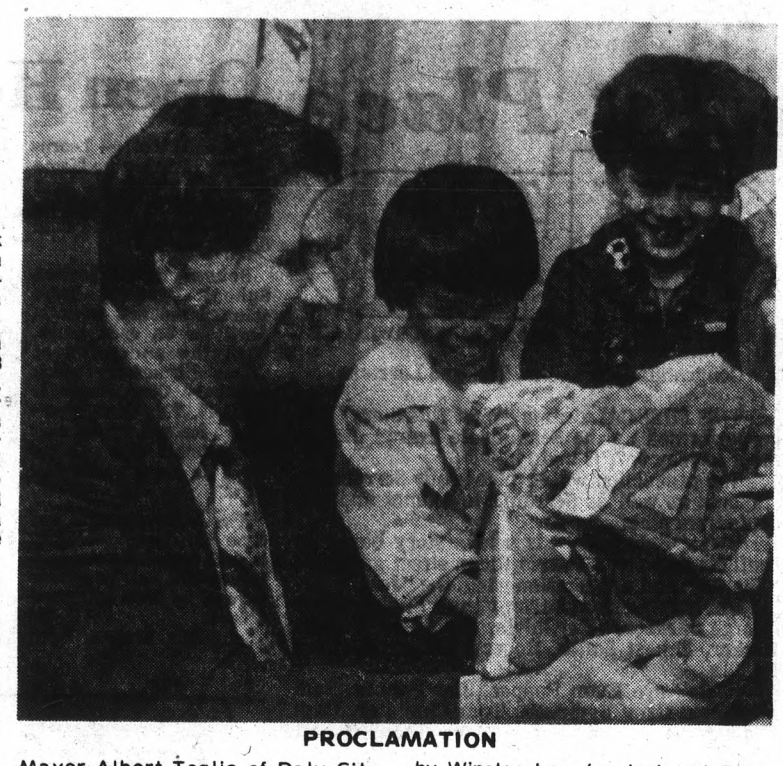
Ms. Van Velsor testified that "120,000 people are being battered by the noise around San Francisco International Airport.

"We can't sleep, work has been affected, children are having difficulty learning and property values have fallen."

Should the aiport, which presently accommodates 18 million passengers a year, be expanded to provide for up to 33 million passengers (a figure Ms. Van Velsor said has been projected following completion of the present North Terminal project), there will be a severe increase in noise impact, she contended.

Ms. Van Velsor was one of four persons from the public sector offering testimony during hearings on aircraft and aiport noise before the subcommittee, which is chaired by Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo County.

Ms. Van Velsor said AIR Force represents residents of San Mateo and San Francisco counties.



PROCLAMATION

Mayor Albert Teglia of Daly City pauses before signing a proclamation declaring the month of April as "Youth Art Month," to admire crafts by Winston Lew (center) and Brian McHenry. The mayor urges citizens to support art programs in schools and youth organizations.

Samuel Chandler

Let's hear it for track and field sports!

Between the excitement called basketball and the beginning of professional baseball, a group of athletes put on shows that are unexcelled. Sprints, relays, hurdles, cross country runs, the discus throw, the shot put, the high jump, gymnastics — these are the sports that turn boys and girls into champions. But alas, they are not heralded by the press or followed by the general public as some other sports.

Track and field events are among the oldest sports in history. They are the skills that primitive man cultivated to stay alive. "He had to run to escape or to pursue his enemies, and to catch animals for food and clothing. No doubt his running took the form of both the sprints and distances, as well as the hurdles when he was forced to leap over rocks or obstacles in his way."

"It can be assumed," Jim Fraley continues in the "Sportsman's Encyclopedia" (Grosset and Dunlap, 1971), "that before prehistoric man had weapons he threw rocks and sticks at animals to kill them. This could have developed into our discus, shot, and javelin throws. The necessity of jumping over streams or wall-like rocks gave rise to the broad jump, pole vault, and high jump."

Today, what is more thrilling than the end of a 440-yard race or an 880-yard run? Here the stamina and precision that the human body can obtain are exhibited for all to see. What is more graceful than a line of athletes running in the hurdles? Where is teamwork more needed than in the relays?

To excell in such events, writes the head track coach at North Carolina Central University, Le Roy Walker, requires that the athlete be not only the sum of his physical qualities but also the combination of his physical and psychological condition. "However great his speed or strength, these may be rendered useless if there is not an effective combining of the physical and psychic qualities at the most appropriate moment."

Coach Walker, writing in his book "Championship Techniques in Track and Field" states that such athletes as the runner coming into the goal, or the jumper clearing a mark 12 to 17 feet above the ground must be a person of "a high degree of skill and courage" and a human being "with steady nerves and absolute confidence."

He writes that competition in track events requires an athlete to develop "interest, readiness, self-confidence, enthusiasm, perseverance," as well as peak physical condition.

Coach Walker says that the training of track and field stars has been likened to training for war. "This may be true in many respects. One notable difference is in the actual training of the athlete and the soldier. Army discipline is largely for mass action. The athlete's performance, on the other hand, is primarily individual."

All this means that on the fields of the high schools and colleges in the spring time, there are men and women who exhibit the excellence and beauty that the human body can obtain. These athletes run their hearts out in track meets that occur almost weekly.

Why not attend their track and field events? They will entertain you, and they deserve your support. You'll come from such events shouting with a writer from "Sports Illustrated": "Hallelujah, what a team!"

"My summer power bill is lower than my neighbor's."

Seniors Not Meeting Today

Lorraine Heath

Mrs. Ernestine Vetter, publicity woman for the Westlake Senior Citizens, reminds that there will not be a club meeting today. The one-week break in the schedule is the result of Easter vacation. Next week, the group will meet at the usual time and place.

Club members had an exciting and educational junket to Salinas recently. Members of the party visited the home of John Steinbeck and had a lovely luncheon before leaving the valley for home.

THE BALBOA HIGH SCHOOL Alumni Board of Directors will meet tomorrow in the school at 7:30 p.m.

Vickie Hackett, the secretary, reports that the meeting will be to prepare plans for the annual meeting coming up next month.

For more information about the association or about the meeting call Miss Hackett or Mrs. Emily Sumrall.

STUDENTS IN THE FOURTH, fifth and sixth grades at Christopher Columbus School are busy this week creating attractive center pieces for the International dinner being sponsored by the PTA unit at that school.

William Gorman, the president of the PTA, has announced that dinner, an annual event at the school, will be held on Tuesday, April 19 in the multipurpose room.

Wall decorations will be made by students in the first second and third grades.

Additional information about the dinner may be obtained by calling the school.

FRIDAY WILL BE an important meeting day for members of Mary's Help Hospital Guild, according to Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, president.

In March the nominating committee submitted its recommendation for officers for the '77-78 term and on Friday the membership will be asked to vote on those recommendations. Among those nominated are Mrs. Frank Kechava, for president; Lois Butler, first vice president; Mrs. Carlyle Hillman, second vice president; Mrs. Elwin Short, recording secretary; Mrs. Milton Gaffigan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dario Baciocco, treasurer; and for directors, Mrs. Andrew Ryan, Mrs. Reinold Jones, and Mrs. Edwin Duggan. Mrs. Stanghellini, retiring president will be the nominee for parliamentarian.

Guild members are asked to note that due to the construction project at the hospital, there will be no luncheon this month. The Board will meet in the board room at 11:30 a.m. and the general meeting will begin at 1 p.m. in the auditorium on the ground floor. Dessert will be served to everyone at 1 p.m.

IT IS SPRING FESTIVAL time again at the Our Lady of Mercy Parish and all the faithful workers are deep in concentrated effort to make this year's festival the best yet.

Harry Kanelopoulos is the general chairman and the floor chairman will be Mrs. James McCann. Mediterranean Holiday is the theme selected and Edward Cuevas, Al Modena and John Hughes will be striving to achieve that effect as they work to create the decorations for the parish hall.

The festival will open on Thursday, May 5 and will run through May 8. On Saturday, May 7, a chicken dinner will be served and reservations for that are now on sale. Mrs. Julian Fernando or Richard Galliani are in charge of the reservations. Also available now are the investment tickets. Mrs. Richard Mudge, Mrs. John Willden and George Hall can supply details about the tickets, according to Mrs. George San Pietro, who is doing the publicity for the parish.

NEXT WEEK WILL mark the advent of National Library week and the local chapter of the Friends of the Library will launch a major membership drive to coincide with the observance.

NEWS DIGEST

Adult Classes

Adult education classes will offer a new six-week course beginning April 13 at the Temple House of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

The evening will be divided into two classes at 7:30 and 8:40 p.m.

To register for one or both courses, call the synagogue office a 756-5430 or Rachel Krug at 993-6535.

Dental Group

The San Mateo County Dental Auxiliary will hold its April meeting on April 14 at 11:30 a.m. at St. James Restaurant in San Mateo.

The guest speaker will be Sally Socolich, author of her book, "Bargain Hunting in the Bay Area." She will speak on her book and how she first became interested in and researched her topic.

Guests are welcome and reservations may be made through Mrs. Alan Muelle of San Carlos.

Garden Club

The Men's Garden Club of San Mateo County will have Albert Wilson, Bay Area author and horticulturist, as speaker for its April meeting on April 14, at the Black Angus Restaurant in San Mateo.

Wilson will speak on "Spring Chores That Improve Summer Gardens."

For the sixth consecutive year, the garden club will present a plant sale, featuring a wide variety of flowers, vegetables, shrubs and house plants grown by members of the club. Sale chairman Bill Wade and Bob Goldberg have announced that the sale will be at the Borel Square in San Mateo and will include experts in gardening there to answer questions and advise how to grow and cultivate the plants purchased.

Audubon Meeting

The Sequoia Chapter of the National Audubon Society invites the public to a monthly meeting on April 14, at 8 p.m. at the San Mateo Garden Center, 605 Parkside Way, San Mateo.

Paul M. Howard will speak and show slides on Alaska and will explain the need for protection of the public lands. Mr. Howard was recently elected senor vice president of the National Audubon Society.

Iris Society

The Westbay Iris Society will meet April 15 at 8 p.m. at the Mercury Savings and Loan Association Community Room, 350 Showers Drive, Mountain View.

Mr. Michael Taylor of Berkeley will discuss drip irrigation and water saving methods. Taylor, a soil scientist, has applied many of these methkods at his home in Berkeley.

The meeting is free and open to the public.

Vehicle Bidding

Seventy-three vehicles formerly used by the U.S. government are being offered for sale to the public by spot bid on April 15 at 10:00 a.m. at the General Services Administration, Personal Property Center, 1070 San Mateo Ave., South San Francisco.

The sale includes sedans and wagons with six and eight cylinders, jeeps, motorcycles, pickups, carryalls, crew cabs and a camper van. The vehicles may be inspected through April 15 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays, at the Personal Property Center.

Further information regarding the sale of these vehicles can be obtained by calling 876-9119. Inquiries should refer to Sale Catalog 9FWS (SF) 77-83.

Black Exhibit

Life-size tableaux of black people by Marie Johnson and nostalgic collages and assemblages by Betye Saar will be on exhibition at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art from April 15 through May 29.

Marie Johnson's figures are silhouettes cut from plywood, painted to achieve a three dimensional effect and clothed in discarded garments.

"Betye Saar's assemblages and collages evoke both the nostalgia of things old and personal and the mystery of the occult," writes the exhibition curator, Rolando Castellon, in the exhibition brochure.

The exhibition will be on view during regular museum hours: Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Chinese Immigrants

Locke, a rural community on the Sacramento Delta, will be the subject of a photographic essay by James Motlow at the Chinese Culture Center gallery from April 17 through May 29.

Locke may be the only town in the United States built for and settled by Chinese immigrants.

The gallery is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m., and is located at 750 Kearny St., Third floor, San Francisco. Admission is free.

Sabbath Services

Sabbath services will be observed in the sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, on April 15 at 8:30 p.m. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Eli Lehav, Guest Cantor, who will chant the liturgy.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the observance of Holocaust Memorial Sabbath, "Yom HaShoah". Rabbi Book's sermon will be titled, "Is there a God after the Holocaust?"

Hebrew School classes commence at 9:30 a.m. on the Shabbat morning of April 16.

At 10:45 a.m., the pupils adjourn to the temple sanctuary where religious school students participate in the service held Saturday morning, led by Rabbi Ira Book.

Handicapables

"Happy Birthday" will be the theme of the day as the Handicapables of San Mateo County observe the seventh anniversary at the monthly gathering to be held at Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, 35 Tower Road, San Mateo on April 16.

This day of recreation is eagerly anticipated by the many physically handicapped and blind ranging in age from 18 to 90 from all parts of the county. The Reverend Joseph Logan, S.J., Chaplain of the Handicapables of San Mateo, will offer Mass at 11 a.m.

Transportatin may be arranged by calling Dora Bruno at 588-1352.

Peking Opera

A Bay Area cultural group, the Society of Chinese Performing Arts, will present a Peking opera, "Fa-men-ssu," in a free performance at the San Francisco State University McKenna Theater on Holloway near 19th Avenue on April 16, at 8 p.m.

Free tickets to this event may be secured through the University's Office of Public Affairs, Room 453 in the new Administration building; phone: 469-1665.

Riordan Guild

Riordan Guild will meet April 19 at 8 p.m. in Chaminade Hall, Riordan High School, 175 Phelan Ave., San Francisco.

The nominating committee will submit recommendations for Guild officers and board members for the 1977-78 term.

Kenneth Barbieri and some of the cast of the Spring play "Carousel," will give a preview showing of this year's musical.

Mozart's Fifth

Twleve Variations on a Minuet (K.179), Sonata in Bb Major (K.333), and Ten Variations on a Theme of Gluck (K.455) highlight the fifth in a seven-recital series of Mozart's complete works for solo piano. William Corbett-Jones performs April 20 at 8 p.m. in Knuth Hall on the San Francisco State University campus.

Admission to the recital is $4; half-price for students, senior citizens and alumni members with card. For information and/or reservations contact the Creative Arts Box Office at 585-7174, noon to 4 p.m. weekdays.

CSM Program

Award-winning musician and conductor Dick Crest will be featured in a multimedia production on April 21, at the College of San Mateo (CSM) Little Theater, from 11:10 a.m. to noon.

"Moments to SHARE WITH Dick Crest and Friends," which is free and open to the public, will consist of live performances by Crest and professional dancers and musicians, as well as production numbers presented on tape and film. A light show will also be included in the program. A total of 15 musical selections, ranging from contemporary to classical and jazz to Big Band sounds, will be presented.

For more information about the free program, call the CSM Music Department at 674-6181 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

AGENT SPEAKS

Ray Gamma, on right, of the Rotary Club of Daly City greets the speaker of the day, Mike Bodisco, Treasury Agent from the Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms of the U.S. Treasury Department. Mike spoke to the local Rotarians at their luncheon meeting on the functions of the three divisions and how each is regulated by his department.

Volunteer Bureau Seeks Assistance

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame and Daly City. The local telephone number for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Residents may also call the Burlingame office at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS — Many volunteers are needed to be guides for the many participants signed up to compete in the events. The Special Olympics will be held April 16 at Mills High School. To be a "Friend for the Day," call the Volunteer Bureau to sign up.

SAN BRUNO LIBRARY — A volunteer is needed to pick up and deliver books between the library and a local convalescent hospital. This only involves one day a month and the time is flexible.

HEAD START — Teacher aides are needed in San Bruno to help with individual and group activities for pre-school age children.

CROCKER SCHOOL — There are many opportunities for volunteers to assist at the school, including helping with clerical work, in the classroom with small groups tutoring individuals, sharing a hobby or a skill, helping in a cooking class, in the library and making games and posters. Any day is convenient and the opportunities are unlimited.

Additional information about these and other interesting volunteer opportunities may be obtained by contacting the telephone numbers listed above or by dropping by the main office in Burlingame located at 119 Primrose Rd. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment.

A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area, and is funded in part by the County of San Mateo.

Chief of Police Posts Newspaper Warning

Chief David A. Hansen has announced the Daly City Police Department's policy on the removal of bound newspaper bundles from the front of the homes in Daly City.

Typically, bound newspapers are placed out with the garbage can on the night prior to collection by the Daly City Scavenger Company. Recently, other citizens have been removing bound newspapers from the premises and turning those papers to their own use.

Hansen said "It is not the policy of the department to discourage paper drives for school or club or church use. However, such newspapers must be received from the owners with their permission, as is typical of most paper drives.

"When the citizen places the newspaper bundles in front of his house for removal by the scavenger company, those papers then become the property of the scavenger company. Any other person removing those papers is committing an act of theft.

"It is the policy, then, of the Daly City Police in such situations to cite into court the person who has removed the paper bundles. Citizens are cautioned to conduct their paper drives in a legal manner. Any acts of theft that are discerned by the police will be prosecuted."

Controversy Over Grading

Beef grading changes implemented last year certainly haven't revolutionized the industry. Producers and packers are not all that happy with them and consumers aren't all that concerned with them. But they're likely to be around for awhile.

That is the feeling expressed by consumer, industry, university and U.S. Department of Agriculture representatives who met in Visalia recently to discuss impact of the changes implemented in February 1976. These changes included:

- Altering the marbling requirement for "prime" and "choice" grades to allow younger and leaner beef to be graded in these categories;
- Narrowing the "good" grade for more consistency within this grade.
- Eliminating conformation (shape of carcass) grading; and
- Requiring that all carcasses graded for quality also be graded for yield (number or retail cuts in proportion to trimmable fat).

Some consumer groups charged that these changes were a USDA and industry scheme to raise beef prices and get more for an inferior product. Producers expected to reduce costs by being able to market their cattle with a shorter feeding period on expensive grain. Neither situation has materialized.

Beef prices have been depressed since the changes went into effect. Although the low prices are largely attributed to an oversupply of beef, University of California Cooperative Extension economist James Cothern said that the grading changes also have contributed by allowing more beef into the "prime" and "choice" grades.

He added that, although grading should benefit consumers by standardizing desirable characteristics in meat, only about 25 per cent of the consumers understand what quality grades are.

The bottom line is consumer satisfaction. This satisfaction is based on a desire to buy a quality product — generally one without excess fat — at a competitive price, rather than any concern over grade, said Ray Sylvester, meat buyer for some 25 retail outlets. In fact, much of today's supermarket beef is not graded and is referred to by the industry as "no-roll" beef.

Crews Rescue DC Man

Two single car accidents occurred seven minutes apart recently on Northern Peninsula freeways.

Fire and rescue crews worked for two hours freeing Roger R. Thomas, 18, of 32 Caroline Way, Daly City, from the twisted weckage of his car. He had slammed into a steel pole at 4:17 a.m. while traveling north on Interstate 280 above Hickey Boulevard.

The California Highway Patrol said Thomas was moving at an excessive rate when his car went up the embankment on the center divider and hit a directional sign pole. He was taken to Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, where he is being treated for major injuries, including two broken legs, according to authorities.

At 4:24 a.m., a car driving southbound on Highway 101 south of Millbrae hit the center divider and overturned.

The driver, George Middel, 23, and his passenger, Bart Breckenridge, 26, both of Mountain View, were taken to Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame. Both were released after being treated for minor injuries.

Millbrae Budget Declines

The public last week got its first peek at the "draft" Millbrae School District budget, which is down by some $71,000 from last year.

In 1976-77 the budget was some $5.6 million. The working draft for this year currently is $5,351,000, Dr. Rufus Clapp disclosed.

This figure fails to include possible employe salary increases and other "probables," Clapp said.

Salary negotiations between the district and teachers are now underway.

An 80-page proposal was handed in to school district negotiators by representatives of the California School Employes Association, Chapter 561, on March 7.

It was explained that part of the proposal asked for wage hikes that might amount to 13 to 15 per cent.

Another section of the proposal favored inclusion of binding arbitration if negotiations reach a stalemate.

But the trustees indicated April 4 they would not approve binding arbitration, under any circumstances.

Clapp said the consensus of the board is that the public elected the trustees to office and, as elected officials, they are answerable to the public, not to an "outside" person who had no responsibility to taxpayers.

It was also the day for the annual election of board officers.

Theodore Dimitre was elected president, replacing retired trustee Remo Boragno.

David G. Lohman is the board's new clerk and Melvin S. Pincus will be the district's representative at all county functions.

Boragno was on the board for 22 years. He did not run for re-election.

Tips on Nursing Plants

To help you nurse droopy house plants back to health, Ray Hasek, University of California environmental horticulture specialist, and Leland S. Frey, UC Cooperative Extension farm advisor, offer the following checklist of symptoms commonly seen in many kinds of house plants along with their possible causes.

Leaf Drop

- Overwatering resulting in root injury
- Sudden changes in temperature
- Sudden change in light intensity from high to low
- Severe nutrient deficiency

Lower Leaf Deterioration

- Too low light intensity
- Overwatering in the presence of too low light intensity
- Disease due to overwatering

Leaf Edges And/Or Tips Scorched

- Too light water
- High salt accumulation in the soil (remove the salt from the soil by running water through it. Thereafter, water with ½ distilled water and ½ tap water.)
- Excess fertilizers
- Insect damage

Foliage Color Lighter Green Than norman

- Overwatering
- Insect damage
- Extremely high temperatures

Shoot Tip Damage or Death

- Overwatering, roots standing in water
- Sudden exposure to high light intensity after prolonged exposure to low light intensity
- Insect damage

Water Soaked Areas on Leaf Blades, Edges or Tips

- Drip from plants growing overhead
- Bacterial or fungal diseases (pick off damaged leaf blades. Keep water off plant leaves.)

Plant growth stunted, foliage small, edges of new leaves and/or midrib curled downward.

- Ethylene gas arising from improperly burned heating gas.

Fewer Students Take Shop and Home Ec

Public high school enrollment in academic courses is growing while fewer students are taking shop, business education and home economics classes, the State Department of Education reports.

The increase in total numbers of students in English, mathematics and science classes is disclosed in a statistical survey of the offerings of 1,794 public schools serving seventh through 12th grades in the 1975-76 school year.

The annual booklet, "Information Selected from the October Report," has only brief commentary, but comparison with past documents shows a decreasing enrollment in nonacademic subjects.

Other highlights:

- 1,269,691 students were enrolled in 27 types of mathematics classes in the 1975-76 academic year, up to 50,003 over the previous year.
- 1,838,382 students were enrolled in English classes, up 103,745,
- 804,511 students were enrolled in the 32 science courses offered, up 62,557.
- 1,467,422 students were enrolled in social science classes, up 51,193 over the previous year and up 80,365 over 1970-71.

The 1974-75 report did not discuss applied arts, but totals from previous publications indicate the declining enrollment picture:

- Industrial arts, a collection of classes ranging from auto mechanics to advanced photography, had an enrollment of 590,216 in 1975-76, down 22,557 from 1973-74.
- Home economics classes showed a drop of 15,566 to 372,253, while business education classes were off 47,202 to 491,694 from 1973-74.
- Agriculture classes showed a slight increase in enrollment, 65,305 in 1973-74 to 71,715 last school year. The 32 course offerings covered animal sciences, agricultural mathematics and agribusiness.

The survey noted that 117 out of a total of 373 school districts with high schools had taken action to set up student smoking areas as provided in legislation enacted in 1975.

All but seven of the state's unified and high school districts provided some form of venereal disease education, the survey reported. In Los Angeles County, for example, more than 250,000 junior and senior high school students received such instruction. The report said approximately 11 million young Californians have participated in VD education programs in their schools.

Copies of the report may be obtained at no cost by writing to Publications Sales, State Department of Education, Box 271, Sacramento 95802.

Mystery Play at Spindrift

"Night Watch" will be presented by the Pacifica Spindrift Players under the direction of Craig Cummins on April 22, 23, 29, 30, May 6 and 7 at 8:30 p.m. at Oddstad Center, 1050 Crespi Drive, Pacifica.

The cast includes Kathleen McIntyre, Grant Haworth, Peggy Fraga, Boyd Thompson, Marj Heise, Warren Gabrielli, Sydney Clark and Bob Southworth who have all performed with the Players in previous productions. Jeff Schwartz will make his debut with the company in this show.

$18,000 DC Fire

Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $18,000 damage to a single-family home in Daly City.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Maccay were visiting in Stockton when the fire broke out in the basement of their home at 630 Hanover St.

A fire department source said the fire is believed to have started near a furnace in the basement. Most of the damage was structural, primarily in the basement.

A neighbor, awakened by the barking of his dog, notified firemen. The man told authorities he smelled smoke in his own house and then heard a crackling sound coming from the house next door.

Restrictions on Use of Energy

Restrictions on certain uses of electricity established during the Mideast oil embargo in 1974 remain in effect, and are as important now as then, Pacific Gas and Electric Company is reminding its customers.

The restrictions, ordered by the California Public Utilities Commission, apply primarily to commercial and industrial customers.

PG&E said it is publicizing these restrictions to help cope with the current drought-induced energy shortage.

The CPUC order specifies:

- Maximum and minimum thermostat settings for business and industrial indoor electrical heating and cooling purposes.
- No floodlighting of outdoor commercial areas during daytime hours and non-business hours, with outdoor lighting at no more than 50 percent of normal during nighttime business hours.
- At outdoor public gatherings, lighting shall not be more than 85 percent of normal.
- Indoor business lighting is prohibited during non-business hours.

The provisions on lighting do not apply in circumstances where lighting is required for safety, security or maintenance, PG&E said.

Parent Talk At Jewish Center Slated

The Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center has announced a schedule change in its bi-weekly lecture/discussion series for single parents who have teenage youngsters.

On April 18, Lynn Winter will speak on "A Single Parent's Rights and Needs." Ms. Winter is the director of adult services at the San Francisco Jewish Community Center.

This group for single parents of teenagers meets on alternate Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center, 655 Brotherhood Way, San Francisco. Pre-registration is required, by calling Andrew Scharlach, M.S.W., at the Center, 334-7474.

NO FINES ACCEPTED

Grace Evans, librarian at Serramonte Library, refuses payment of fines for overdue books from Fernando Johnson (center) and Kenny Terrell. The Library Board of Trustees has declared a moratorium on fines from April 17 to 19.

Book Borrowers Get A Second Chance

National Library Week will be observed throughout the United States April 17 to 23.

Noting that public libraries are institutions that are leaders in the cultural pursuits of the cities and towns of the United States, Mayor Albert M. Teglia has proclaimed that National Library Week be observed throughout the City of Daly City.

Following his lead the Library Board of Trustees has declared a moratorium of fines from April 17 to 29. "During this time," said City Librarian Samuel Chandler, "no fines will be charged for overdue books or audio-visual items. Patrons may return any item, however long it has been overdue. No questions will be asked no comments will be made."

Chandler noted that the Board of Library Trustees hopes that delinquent borrowers will use this moratorium to return items that belong to all the people of Daly City.

Other programs planned for National Library Week include the inauguration of a Friends of the Library Rental Collection thus making bestsellers more available.

Verna Teglia president of the Friends of the Daly City Library, extends an invitation to the residents of Daly City to attend a series of teas slated for the branches of the public library during National Library Week. The teas are scheduled from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. as follows: Monday at Westlake; Tuesday at Serramonte; Wednesday at John D. Daly; Thursday at Bayshore; Friday at Westlake; Saturday at Serramonte.

Police Chief Hansen Gives Commendations

Daly City Police Chief David A. Hansen has been busy passing out certificates. He presented a certificate of appreciation to Christopher A. LaPoure of Daly City. LaPoure and Mike E. Reynolds witnessed a strongarm robbery near the Broadmoor Shopping Center. The two men pursued the suspect until he was arrested.

Chief Hansen said, "When you became aware that the crime had been committed you pursued the suspect without hesitation, even though you believed him to be armed with a knife. Your courageous disregard for your own personal safety and willingness to become involved are highly commendable."

Reynolds was not available to receive his certificate. His certificate was mailed to his aunt, Mrs. Bartlett, of Morton Drive in Daly City.

In addition to the two citizens receiving the Chief's awards, Chief Hansen has awarded nine Chief's Commendations to various Daly City Police personnel from the ranks of cadet, police officers, police technician and lieutenant, which occurred over the past two weeks.

Chief Hansen awarded a certificate of commendation to Police Cadet John Moura, Officer Raymond Gedney and Officer Donald Cubic. The teamwork of these three men prevented the theft of some foreign art objects on display in the City Hall in Daly City. The paintings were damaged during the attempted thefts but all of the suspects involved were appropriately charged and arrested.

Cadet Moura initially noticed some unusual activity in the early morning hours and summoned Officer Gedney. Officer Gedney, with the aid of other officers, investigated the incident. Officer Gedney located fingerprints on the art objects matching those of the suspects. Positive comparison of the prints was made by Officer Donald Cubic which resulted in the arrest of the suspects.

In the past two weeks Chief Hansen has awarded nine commendations to Daly City Police personnel from the ranks of cadet, police officers, police technician and lieutenant.

Papan on Radio

San Mateo County Assemblyman Louis J. Papan will be the guest of the KCSM Channel 14 public affairs program "Contact" on April 28 at 9:30 p.m.

Assemblyman Papan will be interviewed by hostess Leonore Tuttle. Topics expected to be discussed are his appointment to the Assembly Rules Committee Chairmanship, current legislation before the Assembly, and proposed reform in the property tax system.

St. Andrew's Sets Community Concert

On April 17, at 3 p.m., St. Andrew's Community concerts will present Georgia Prugh in concert, with Leroy Miller at the piano. Mrs. Prugh has sung with the Lamplighters for a number of years and having just concluded a performance of Tosca with the West Bay Opera Company. She has performed in Carmen, The Merry Widow, Suor Angelica, and Cosi Fan Tutte, among others, and is soprano soloist at the First Congregational-Church in San Francisco.

Mr. Miller has appeared with the S.F. Symphony and the Los Angeles Philharmonic, appearing under such conductors as Arthur Fiedler, Carmen Dragon, and Kurt Herbert Adler.

Serving as narrator for the concert will be Dale Emde, local recording artist and opera director and a regular performer with the San Francisco Opera Company.

The concert will be at St. Andrew's Catholic Church, on the corner of Southgate and Sullivan in Daly City. Admission at the door is a donation of $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens.

Trials of Vending Machine Men

By VERA GRAHAM

Be good to your friendly vending machine serviceman.

You have no idea what he goes through.

Three of them shudder (and sometimes grin) on recalling some of their experiences.

The trio includes Eduardo Rangel, 33, of 2757 Bromley Drive, San Carlos; John Piro, 36, of 352 Mastick Ave., San Bruno; and Paul Banayat, 32, of 1277 Skyline Drive, Daly City.

They all work for one of the largest Peninsula vending machine firms, Coca Cola Distributors of the Peninsula.

Eduardo and John tell of harrowing times working the machines on the San Francisco waterfront.

John winces on recalling how once at Pier 29 he came in to service a food vending machine which had had periodic problems.

"I came in and looked for it in the usual place, and it was gone," John said. "When I asked one of the longshoremen what had happened to it, he and a bunch of the guys roared.

"'Take a look,' they said, pointing to the ceiling. Sure enough, there it was. They had welded it up there."

John had to get a forklift to haul it down. That took some doing.

One of Eduardo's happiest moments took place at College of San Mateo.

"One of the company supervisors took the whole cup station (dispensing device) out of a machine to make repairs. There's lots of space inside the machine when you do that," explains Eduardo with a chuckle.

"So, we got a hot plate and a cute little girl student and put her inside the machine. When the next student came along and put his money in for coffee, out came her hand, holding a steaming cup." The gag brought down the house.

"And then there was the time when . . . " Piro's voice trails off with a shudder. He pulls himself together to relate, "You see, I used to cover this building on Sutter Street in San Francisco.

"I'd get there at 6 a.m. — had keys to the door. There was never anyone there. We had the old coffee dispensing machine then, which had a waste bucket in it for water and grounds. It was my habit to go into the ladies' room and throw the stuff down the toilet. The dressing room was always dark."

John paused and gulped. "This one morning, I go about my routine, open the door to the ladies' john and toss out the bucket's contents . . . and then I heard this awful scream. There was a lady in the dark.

"Can you imagine how I felt? . . . I asked her, 'Why didn't you turn the light on?' She said she had come in to do some extra work and was just taking a quiet moment for herself when all this stuff comes pouring in on her head. I felt awful, just awful . . . She sure was mad, but I explained and apologized over and over, and she kind of understood."

And then Ed told of the time when he was first being trained. His instructor was a very small man.

(Times Photos by Mike Spinelli)

SOME THINGS YOU JUST WOULDN'T BELIEVE

Paul Banayat, John Piro and Eduardo Rangel recall experiences.

"He was showing me how to handle the machines, when a great big warehouseman comes in and gets a cup of chocolate. He looks at it, comes over to the little instructor and just lifts him clean up off the floor, puts his nose up against his face and says, 'Would you mind identifying what's floating on top of my chocolate?'"

It was an unidentified floating object, Eduardo explains, quickly adding that it was years ago when he was employed by another firm and the careful sanitary measures of today were not as much in evidence in those days.

Eduardo also shakes his head at the time he arrived to discover some warehouseman had driven a forklift into the machine, literally exploding it.

"He left a message, anyway," Eduardo reported. "It said, 'Never cheat a hungry forklift.'"

And all the servicemen tell of finding their machines dumped into the bay, ravaged, beaten, battered and assaulted.

Some of the machines cost up to $3,000.

At that point, Paul, who is the mechanic for the machines, defends them. His colleagues agree when

Mentally Ill Reportedly Housed in Cheap Hotels

Because there are few supervised residential care facilities in San Mateo County for chronic mental patients, too many are being shunted to cheap skid row hotels.

That was the finding of a report to the San Mateo County Mental Health Advisory Board by the Residential Care Subcommittee, Chronic Patient (Mental) Task Force.

There are about 1,200 persons in this county who the report says need continuing care. In addition, as a result of Assembly Bill 1229, the report states, "The mentally disordered law offender will be transferred from the criminal justice system and create a need for specialized residential care facilities."

As of January, a check showed the county has only 675 beds for mentally ill patients. Of that number, 107 are available for the chronically ill, but of that number, again, only 45 are available to young adults.

The report recommends a central coordinating agency to find new residential homes, arrange patient referrals, trace out-of-county placements and provide supportive services needed by operators of residential care homes.

The licensing of homes, which the county has dropped, must be resumed at the county, rather than the state, level, the report states. This would require adequate staff, responsible for licensing, inspection and supervision of the homes.

A system of payments to supplement other funds should be developed to pay for the real cost of providing the home care services. And, to encourage home operators, they should receive adequate compensation. The certification of homes as Housing and Urban Development (HUD) living units would provide additional funding.

The report also urges the development of a planning program to develop residential resources in the county.

The report was signed by Mrs. Margaret A. Davis and Mrs. Marsha Pomeroy, co-leaders of the task force.

SamTrans Sets New Records

Ridership on San Mateo County Transit District buses passed the 700,000 a month mark for the first time in March, according to district figures just released.

Among other records, most of them occurring almost monthly, were a one-day high of 30,299 passengers reached March 4 and a monthly revenue high of $126,457 from the farebox and reduced fare permit sales.

Ridership was less than 16,000 per day when SamTrans took over the various city bus systems last July 1. The district now has reached 80 per cent of its projected 6 million riders by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Revenues are nearly 70 per cent of the projected $1.2 million for the same period.

The figures are significant, district officials say, because the district didn't expand into Daly City until January and an expected big increase in volume scheduled for this spring won't occur probably until June. That's when the district takes over Greyhound and expands.

Senior citizens and handicapped riders boarded SamTrans buses in record numbers in March, with 81,192 passengers carried at reduced fares, an increase of 10,000 over the previous month.

Jefferson VICA Wins Gold Medals

Jefferson High School's chapter of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) won eight gold and seven silver medals in recent competition.

Some 15 Jefferson VICA members were successful in the San Jose Regional Competition, an annual test of industrial, vocational skills for high school students. More than 450 students competed.

Gold medal winners from Jefferson High included Angelo Calabreso, electrical trades; Steve Cline, electrical trades; Peter Folan, auto repair; Richard Navarro, radio and television repair and Ricardo Reyes, architectural drafting.

Other gold medal winners were Pam Jang, photography; Paulette Young, job interview and Andrew Serrano, extemporaneous speaking.

Winning silver medals were Bonnie Frazier, Lisa Goodman, Janice Browning, Donald Gonzales, Mary Anna White, Mary Trevizo and Ileanette Vilasco.

Gold medalists will compete in statewide competitions to be held in Sacramento May 6-8.

Trials

he says, "People should read the instructions. They just don't do it, and then they blame the machines.

"Like the time when a lady put a coin in and pushed the button before the coin could be registered. She did that three times. I finally went over and put my hand over hers to get her to wait until she pressed the button.

"It worked. But, would you believe, right after that she did the same thing, and walked off exclaiming, 'These stupid machines never work.'"

And lots of times it isn't the fault of the machines. It's the result of downright human cupidity. The servicemen groan at the sight of foreign coins.

"Most of the calls I get are caused by funny money," Paul explains. "Bent coins, Canadian money, yen, kopeks . . . all kinds of money. Lots of times, when you're servicing machines at a hotel, you know who's having a convention by the kind of money deposited."

"You can't fool the machines," Eduardo, Paul and John agree. Today's sophisticated machinery senses the weight, thickness, material and make of coin.

Exasperated at being called to task for problems consumers themselves cause, Eduardo told of one serviceman who, while at CSM, had a student come up to him and protest the machine had given him something other than what it was supposed to.

The serviceman took a careful look and said, "Hm . . . You wanted No. 11 and No. 13 came out. Well, this is Tuesday, you're supposed to push Nos. 2 and 9. On Mondays, you push Nos. 6 and 5, Wednesdays, it's Nos. 8 and 3."

"The student believed him, and without thinking began to take down all of the combinations," Eduardo grinned.

Paul commented, "That's what I mean about people not reading the instructions on the machine."

And, lots of times people just plain cheat.

They'll tell the servicemen the machine gobbled up their money when it hasn't.

Servicemen take a beating on price rises which they can't help, and tell of people who put in a coin for coffee, dump half of it, demand their money back, which they get, only to turn around and go buy something more expensive that they wanted. Servicemen learn to watch people.

John comments, "Sure wish you'd tell people that when these machines are put in, they're leveled and balanced, and the first guy who kicks it puts it off balance. And that can cause coin problems, and other difficulties."

A frequent complaint, besides money loss, is a demand for something different to be put into the machine.

"When we ask them what they'd like, they don't know. Sometimes, someone suggests a martini," adds Eduardo with eyes brightening.

John nods, "I sure looked into that one. The trouble is, you need a liquor license."

And all the servicemen appeal, "Try not to chat or ask for change or help when we're counting our money. We have to note everything on a sheet that is fed into a computer. Everything has to balance. We have to account for every candy bar, every item we take out and replace, and it can be tough keeping track."

Also, the men can't give away free samples, though their customers will exclaim, "Look at all the stuff, and lookit the money you make."

"Everything is inventoried to us at the price you see," explains Eduardo.

"People ask for all kinds of things," John says with a shake of the head — including used coffee grounds.

That's not a bad idea, it is pointed out. The servicemen themselves will take the grounds home. One of them said, "It helps break up the soil. I have a great lawn because of it."

There are startlingly unpleasant experiences, too, such as the time when a student seized a serviceman's bunch of keys out of the machine at a college. Locks had to be changed.

But, in spite of their harrowing experiences, the men enjoy their jobs, they like people, and they like the company they work for.

And in unison they appeal, "Be nice to your machine. Nine times out of 10, people cause problems.

"Don't kick it, hit it, yell at it, blow it up, shoot it or plead with it. It can't fight back — yet."

SSF Won't Ban Fireworks Sales

South San Francisco joined the majority of the cities in the county Wednesday night in refusing to ban fireworks for one year.

The emergency ordinance proposed by Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner sparked the interest of several community groups who protested that it would cut off a major source of funds for nonprofit groups and would be nearly impossible to enforce.

The City Council voted 4 to 1 to table the proposal indefinitely.

Only two cities in San Mateo County — San Bruno and Brisbane — have adopted the ban originally proposed by the county Fire Chiefs Association.

The organization had sought the ban as a water conservation measure during this dry year. The chiefs said that fire departments put out hundreds of fires every year caused by fireworks, both legal and illegal.

Only Councilman Emanuele Damonte, who had requested a ban last year, supported the proposed ban this year.

Reportedly, only the cities of Belmont and Millbrae are left to vote on the ban. San Mateo voted to table the proposal, also.

Assistant Fire Chief Derk Zylker said the department used 23,600 gallons of water last year in fighting fireworks-related fires.

He said there were 134 fires related to fireworks last year — 35 of them from June 26 to July 10. Of those, he said, 14 were caused by so-called "safe and sane" fireworks — the legal variety.

Zylker said that in spite of the rules provided for the use of safe and sane fireworks, fires still occur.

The assistant chief said the department is aware that many organizations derive funds from the sale of fireworks.

"We don't want to seem unsympathetic to their needs," he said. "We do feel, however, they could find an alternative to the sale of fireworks."

Skip McDonald, representing the South San Francisco Elks Club and St. Veronica's Church, said the ban would work only on a statewide basis.

If fireworks are banned by only a few cities, illegal fireworks will be more prolific, he said, "and then you'll really have trouble."

He noted that the state legislature is considering a state-wide fireworks ban. That measure, if enacted, would work, he said.

Letter to the Editor

Broadmoor Contract

To the Editor:

Recently there has been a considerable amount of publicity and confusion regarding the police contract with the City of Daly City and the possible extension of that contract as opposed to obtaining some type of liability insurance for the District at greatly increased costs. A decision must be made by your Police Commission to either approve an extraordinarily high fiscal 1977/78 budget with no increase of police services to you, or to negotiate a long term contract for police services with the City of Daly City. There can be no doubt that the current contractual policing by Daly City, using our officers in the Broadmoor District, has provided a higher level of service to you than at any time since 1969 when I was elected to this Commission.

There are quite a number of people who feel that we should procure the insurance at any cost irrespective of the financial burden on the homeowner. I cannot in good conscience agree with these people due to the number of families living on pensions, fixed incomes, or those who have some other financial hardship. The recent increase in the assessed valuation of your property will be reflected in your 1977/78 tax bills. The County Assessor has stated that the average increase in assessed valuation for the Broadmoor Police Protection District is 58 per cent, which in itself will result in a significant increase in taxes. In addition, the voters approved Proposition "U" last November authorizing the Police Commission to double the rate at which you are taxed for police services. At the time, proponents of this measure claimed that it was necessary to save the Police District; they stated that the financial impact on the "average" homeowner would be $40.00 per year. I criticized the measure than as I do now, not for its intent, but because the true cost to you was never revealed. If the average taxpayer did pay $40.00 per year for police taxes in prior years, and the assessed value has just been increased by an average of 50 per cent and the rate at which you are taxed is doubled, then the $40.00 increase will be more like $140.00 per year just for police protection. This does not allow for any increase in the level of service provided to you. Look at your tax bill and check to see how much you actually paid for Broadmoor Police; then look at your total assessed valuation. A simple calculation will tell you the amount of the tax increase and how much police services will cost.

There is a practical and economical alternative which does not affect the independence of the Broadmoor Community. By negotiating a long term contract with the City of Daly City, we could reduce the cost by about half and maybe more, still maintain our identity, and insure that all of our officers are employed, as well as enjoy an extremely high level of police protection.

The other problems which constantly plague our District have been annexations away from us which reduce our tax base. Under a contract with Daly City, future annexations to either Daly City or Colma would not affect the level of police service. As it is now, every time a parcel of ours is annexed, it is usually commercial property which, when subtracted from our total tax base, shifts more of the tax burden to the homeowner. There is little hope that more individual property owners will not continue to apply for annexation either to the City of Daly City or to the Town of Colma. Since there is no known way to increase our tax base, we will continue to face one fiscal crisis after another, the result of which ultimately is a tax increase to the homeowner.

In summation, I feel very strongly that the Board of Police Commissioners have a very serious obligation to consider the total cost of providing the highest level of service consistent with the recommendations of the Police Task Force of the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals:

"Every . . . local government . . . should provide police services by the most effective and efficient organizational means available . . . Every local government should take whatever actions are necessary to provide police services through mutual agreement for joint participation where such services can be provided most effectively."

Contracting with the City of Daly City will be considerably less expensive by at least half and perhaps more and at the same time provide us with a higher level of police protection.

I firmly believe that the Police Commission has a moral, ethical, and legal responsibility to provide the necessary protection to you at the lowest cost to the taxpayer.

JACK R. McCLOSKEY
Commissioner
Broadmoor Police District

Editor's note: The County assessor's office has informed this newspaper that the assessed valuation on which the commissioner bases his letter is "about 24 per cent" for Broadmoor.

Pacifica Driver Hits Patrol Car

William John Stringer, 26, of 1190 Polo, Pacifica, hit the wrong car early one morning, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers Richard Duncan and Robert Geffree reported they were checking a hit-run accident with Fred Fletcher of 3405 Bartlett Way, Belmont, on Magellan Avenue just off Cabrillo Highway in Moss Beach about 2 a.m. on April 9.

Duncan said he saw Stringer's car heading for his patrol car and he yelled to Geffree to jump. Geffree did, the officers said, as Stringer's auto hit their patrol car, glanced off and sideswiped Fletcher's vehicle.

Stringer, whom the officers said had gone through a flare pattern, was booked at the county jail for drunken driving.

The driver who had been involved in the accident with Fletcher's car never was located.

SSF Trustees Take Strike Case Before Sen. Foran

South San Francisco's five school board trustees took their case against the California Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing to State Sen. John Foran's office Wednesday.

In an unprecedented meeting with one of their local legislators, the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees sought Foran's support in a case that goes back to a two-week 1975 teacher strike.

Deputy District Atty. Lee Port, who represents the board in litigation, told Foran that the state commission has refused to consider revoking the credentials of seven teachers.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Jenkins ordered the state commission in October to hear the charges against the teachers and consider their future.

The charges — which involve alleged teacher activity on the picket line during the strike — were the result of complaints filed by members of the community, district officials have said.

Mrs. Port said Wednesday the deputy attorney general's office in San Francisco has sought an appeal of Jenkins' ruling.

Deputy Atty. General Robert Murphy said later that Jenkins has ordered the court to process an appeal by the state. The appeal was uncertain because documents filed by Murphy had failed to meet court deadlines.

Mrs. Port and the trustees were critical of the state commission allegedly for refusing to hear their case.

"I don't care if the teachers get their credentials revoked or not," Mrs. Port said. She said state education codes say that the commission must consider the revocation of credentials when charges are presented.

However, the commission's decision has been simply not to decide anything, she said.

The commission's job, she said, is to police the teaching profession, "and they're not doing it."

She said State, Supt. of Schools Wilson Riles has supported the claim of the SSFUSD and other districts in the state that the commission is refusing to do what it was appointed to do.

She told Foran she has been in touch with five or six other legislators who are scrutinizing the activities of the state commission.

Mrs. Port said commission officials "tell me it's a political hot potato — stop bugging us."

She said she's been told that it would be "politically unfeasible" to take any action concerning the SSFUSD teachers.

The California Teachers Association is the dominant union in the district, where approximately 500 teachers are employed.

"We really want to have the matter adjudicated correctly," Trustee Ken Austin said. "All we're asking is for them to do their job."

Trustee John Dillon pointed out that there are two vacancies on the commission.

"I would like to get somebody on there who will do something," Dillon said. He said he's not interested in "stacking" the commission but in getting it to simply consider the charges.

The commissioners are appointed by the governor.

Trustee Tom Henkle said that public education has suffered a "black eye in the media" in recent years.

"The thing we are trying to bring to you today isn't going to make it any worse and it might just make it better," he said. The teaching profession — like all others — must police itself, he said.

Mrs. Port said students are shortchanged when they have incompetent teachers.

"There's no sense keeping the incompetent when schools are turning out bright, brilliant teachers by the score every year," she said.

Trustees noted several times, however, that the intent of their case now is not to revoke credentials but to force the state commission to do its job.

Negative Decision On Tobias

California State Teachers Retirement Service (STRS) has ruled against Marjorie Tobias in a dispute involving the retired administrator's current employment with the Jefferson Elementary School District (JESD).

Miss Tobias has continued her duties as a $100-a-day educational consultant for JESD since the STRS began looking into her employment more than a month ago.

Newton Byrd, assistant to the chief executive officer of STRS, said a letter is en route to Miss Tobias, JESD officials and the San Mateo County Office of Education concerning the staff decision.

The next step will be for the STRS to determine who is at fault — Miss Tobias or the Jefferson district which hired her. In either case, STRS will require restitution of disputed retirement funds to be made.

North County To Eye Water

The California Water Co. branch serving South San Francisco and Broadmoor has scheduled a public hearing for 10 a.m. April 14 in the West Orange Avenue Library Auditorium to determine how it will enact water conservation measures in those communities.

Doug Southworth, branch manager, said some 12,000 customers are served in the two North County communities.

Cal-Water plans a 25 per cent across-the-board cut by every household — based on last year's bills — regardless of family size.

It has not yet been determined if the company will propose a cut of 10 or 25 per cent by industrial users, Southworth said.

The proposed rationing plan prohibits the use of water for irrigation in excess of 50 per cent of the previous year's volume.

It also prohibits the use of a hose to wash cars, buses, boats, trailers and other vehicles, and to wash buildings, sidewalks and other hard-surfaced areas.

Use of water to fill a new or existing swimming pool also will be banned.

The meeting will be held at the West Orange Avenue Library Auditorium.

3 Suspects Caught

Three men have been charged with the armed robbery of a Daly City store April 7.

Police said two of the suspects entered the patio shop of Montgomery Ward & Co. in the Serramonte Shopping Center at 4:28 p.m. Wednesday, produced a small caliber handgun and demanded that the clerk empty the cash register.

They fled with $500 in cash but were soon spotted by Daly City police, who pursued their vehicle around Daly City and San Francisco until they stopped it at a deadend street.

The money and weapon were recovered from Vernon Anderson, 25, Lawrence Brown, 27, and Emile Arvis Jr., 28, all of San Francisco, according to the report.

They were taken into custody and charged with armed robbery.

A MATTER OF TIME

Myron Bernal (left) of Daly City celebrates his 40th year with H. S. Crocker Co. of San Bruno at the firm's service awards luncheon held at the Hyatt House in Burlingame. At the same time Anna Alladio of South San Francisco celebrated 25 years, Frank Bacolini of San Bruno (second from right) 25 years, and Frank Spacher of San Bruno 30 years. Diamond-studded gold pins and gold atmospheric perpetual motion clocks were presented marking the anniversaries.

Three DC Students Receive Scholarships

The Roland Petrocchi Memorial Fund Committee has awarded three scholarships of $250 each to three local students.

Paulette Young, 18, of Jefferson High School; Lori Parise, 17, of Westmoor High School; and Nancy Tchakedjian 18, of Westmoor High School are the successful candidates. Students from Westmoor, Serramonte and Jefferson High Schools competed.

The fund was established following the death of Chief Roland Petrocchi of the Daly City Police Department in April, 1974. It has been funded by contributions from interested businessmen and citizens in the community for the purpose of encouraging young people who wish to follow careers in law enforcement and related fields.

Frank Spadarella of Toto's Pizzeria Charles Turner President of the First National Bank of Daly City, Det. Lester Bastedo of the Daly City Police Department, and Chief of Police David A. Hansen participated in the process of selecting the successful candidates.

The money awarded in this action came from a contribution of $1,000 from Mr. William Kilgore, an interested citizen who supports the program. Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund may address contributions to The Roland Petrocchi Memorial Trust Fund, P.O. Box 780, Daly City 94017.

In other action, the members of the Board extended a loan of $250 to the Daly City Police Explorer Post to assist in the purchase of a vehicle for use in their activities.

Legislation Clarifies Compensation Law

Is the neighborhood teenager who mows your lawn once every two weeks a household employe? How about the babysitter who comes in occasionally?

New legislation signed by Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. may have cleared up the question of who is and who isn't an employe in California as far as workers' compensation insurance benefits are concerned.

Only those household workers who meet minimum time and earnings requirements will be eligible for workers' compensation benefits under their employer's liability insurance policy in the event of an injury while they are on the job.

The legislation, contained in Assembly Bill 133, amends law in effect since the first of the year which made almost anyone who worked for a householder, no matter how briefly, eligible for workers' compensation benefits.

The new law limits workers' compensation coverage to casual and household employes who, in the 90 days before the injury worked both a minimum of 52 hours and earned at least $100 from the employer in whose house or apartment the injury occurred.

Doctor Disputes

American Medical Association nutritionists report there is no need for vitamin diet supplements, if people would only take the time to eat properly.

Dr. Philip White, head of the AMA nutrition department, reports in his book "Let's Talk About Food," "Foods are the preferred source of nutrients. With the proper and careful selection of foods, there is no need for dietary supplementation with vitamins, minerals and protein."

Vitamins are no longer the mysterious unidentifiable objects they once were. All can be isolated, studied, seen and tasted in the laboratory.

Vitamins are vital for all body cells and each biological function. Since our body can't manufacture vitamins, they must be obtained from our diet for normal growth and health.

According to nutritionists, the easiest way to receive the nutrients we need, including vitamins, is to make food selections using USDA's four food group system.

The four food groups are milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals. Foods are grouped according to common nutrients.

Four food group recommendations for adults include two servings from the milk group for protein, calcium and riboflavin (vitamin B-2); two meat group servings for protein, niacin, iron and thiamin (vitamin B-1); four vegetable-fruit group servings for vitamins A and C; and four bread-cereal group servings for B vitamins and iron.

Le Pacini

There will be a marathon basketbal game between high school students at Terra Nova High School on the weekend of April 22-23, but this is not going to be one of those freaky events in which kids often participate when they have nothing better to do. There will be no attempt at breaking the Guinness Book of World Records listed mark for long basketbal games, which is, incidentally, 56 hours, one minute, and was set by just 10 players from St. Mary's High School, Penn.

One of the reasons that record will not be broken is that about 40 players will participate. If it were completely up to the entire student body of Terra Nova, probably 400 would participate, because this game is for Jeanine.

Several weeks ago Jeanine Battaion, a Terra Nova sophomore, was one of four present and former Terra Nova students whose car was involved in a collision which left one student dead, two others seriously injured, and Jeanine, the popular, outgoing sophomore class president, in a grave comatose state with severe brain damage.

THE BATTAION family, with four teenagers and a father who is on disability since a leg amputation last year, is far from able to afford the mounting medical expenses being incurred as Jeanine lies in a coma. The Terra Nova student body has rallied around the Battaion family in a manner which belies the current image of the lethargic, uninvolved teenager. There have been bake sales and donations from scholarship funds and other school events; the winning of $1,000 in a radio contest; a variety show including television stars and major league athletes is coming up, and, of course, there is the marathon basketball game.

Terra Nova varsity basketball coach Bud Bresnahan is limiting participation in the game to members only of TN boys' and girls' basketball teams, from all levels, primarily because of insurance complications, but also to ensure that the game is really a game and doesn't disintegrate into an unmanageable clown show.

ASIDE from gate admission, money is being raised from sponsors who will pay players an amount per minute for every minute they play, just as walk-a-thon participants charge sponsors for every mile they walk.

It should be an interesting game, because Bresnahan plans to mix the competition. It may be varsity players against varsity players one hour, freshmen against seniors another hour, boys' varsity against girls' varsity another hour, and so on.

There will be a black team and a gold team, and a winner and a real score will emerge. Bresnahan will coach one of the teams and claim that if he gets a lead at 20 hours, he's going into a four-corner delay until the game ends.

Probable starting time is 5 p.m. (read here next week about any changes) on Friday, April 22.

POST SCRIPT: This isn't about sports, but it is about the very special attitude of Terra Nova students concerning Jeanine. One of the school newspaper photographers was asked if he could take pictures at the variety show, and when he happily agreed. The journalism teacher, aware that the photographer has been borrowing cigarettes, bus fare and lunch money from everybody in sight since his freshman year, told him that because of the nature of the event, he would get no press pass, but that his admission would be paid by the journalism department.

"No," said the photographer, shaking his head vigorously. "I'll pay this one myself. I want to participate."

NOW we come to the film "Rocky," and yes, as an old fight buff I can say that it is technically genuine and authentic enough. In cases where dramatic license was taken, it is not obtrusive. What is really important about "Rocky" is not how technically flawed it may or may not have been — even in real life technical mistakes are made but that is an excellent movie about people, about the human condition, and about the triumph of man over himself, which is really what sports at their most idealistic are all about.

It is hard to imagine that until a year ago, writer-star of "Rocky," Sylvester Stallone, had never even seen a boxing match. Forget that he might not have thrown a jab in classic fashion. In fact, I can't even remember him throwing a jab. The fact is that his portrayal of a fighter as a human being is right on target.

He shows the crude courtliness, the big heart, the inherent gentleness, the deep-down genuine humility that I've encountered in most professional fighters I've met. Rocky is tough but not mean. Football players are mean. Hockey players are mean. But fighters seldom are. Why? Who knows. Maybe they get that meanness beaten out of them at the same time that they get their humility pounded into them.

IT IS much easier to be mean in a team sport, especially one in which there are always piles of bodies lying around, obscuring the mean gestures. But when a man is face to face with another man in the ring, and he's mean, the opponent knows exactly who is responsible. He doesn't have to guess that the poke in the groin might have come from eithr the left side linebacker or the cornerback. That makes retaliation much easier because it can be so direct and can come immediately — not the next time a play is run around the opponent's end.

When the opponent knows that you have been mean to him, he also knows, as you do, that there will be no help from teammates when retaliation takes place. As Joe Louis said about the ring, you can run, but you can't hide. You can't hide from your opponent, or from the spotlights and carefully focused glare of the audience.

I think that prize fighters, along with broncbusters, are the first athletes to learn that, "There never was a horse couldn't be rode, never was a man couldn't be throwed."

AS FOR the critics who say that Stallone is too small for a heavyweight and that the manner in which he got a championship fight is too far-fetched, I say rubbish.

Stallone is about the same size — 5'10", 185 pounds — as Rocky Marciano was in his prime. And who can forget the Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher fiasco. At least in the film, Rocky Balboa had had 64 professional fights. Rademacher hadn't had one. He came right out of Olympic competition to fight for the world title. Just like "Rocky," he was a white hope for the curious.

There have been those who say that nobody like Rocky could have gone the route and lost a close split decision with a great heavyweight champ. Again, rubbish.

Stallone set that up very carefully. He gave Rocky a lot of heart. He made the champ take Rocky too lightly. And he made Rocky a left-hander and a good body puncher. No good fighter likes southpaws or body punchers or, for that matter, gutsy guys with hard chins who keep coming at them.

Had a real-life Rocky existed in Muhammad Ali's prime, a hard chinned southpaw who could body punch and keep coming, I would have bet on him.

Besides all of the above, I haven't been at a movie since John Wayne was fighting the bad guys in World War II where the audience actually was out of its seats cheering for the good guy at the end, just like a real fight.

San Jose Relays

Hicks Claims 'Best'

By KEITH LARSEN
Correspondent

SAN JOSE — Skyline College's Tony Hicks shared the national lead in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles going into Saturday's San Jose Relays.

It took him 52 seconds flat to grab the national lead for himself. The man he had shared the distinction with, Walter Pratt of Bakersfield, finished one second and two places behind. Hicks' analysis was succinct.

"I saw him come up on me on the third hurdle," he said. "That was the last time I saw him. I knew I had more speed than he had."

"People talked about how great Hicks' kick was at the end of the race," said Skyline Coach Bob Lualhati. "That was no kick. Everybody else slowed down, but Tony kept going. He was in much better shape than anyone in the race, and it showed."

Matter-of-fact appraisals were the order of the day, both for local entrants — who did quite well in both the JC and high school divisions — and the stars of the big-time events.

Skyline's Dan John won the JC discus at 162-7. "When I threw a 172 in warmup they were all psyched out," he said. "I knew I had it won." (The Trojans do not lack confidence.) CSM's Gregg Tafralis was fourth at 157-1.

Hicks came back to run a 47.3 third leg for the Trojan mile relay team, but Skyline finished third behind Alameda and San Jose with a 3:15.35 clocking. Skyline anchor Alvin Diles had the lead, but was passed on either side and boxed in.

Serra High's Stan Ross and Westmoor's Jeff Maxwell weren't overly pleased after the half mile, though Ross had finished second at 1:56.3 (well short of his best) and Maxwell third at 1:56.6.

"I haven't got a kick yet," said Maxwell. "This is the second straight (invitational) that I've run all right in, but I haven't had the kick." He and Ross both predicted improvement for themselves.

But, even before that race, both had figured in impressive second-place performances.

Ross lost his mile race to Mark Stillman of Willow Glen, who ran 4:11.54. But Ross' 4:12.04 (electronic timing) was the third best mile ever run by a County prep, and the fastest in five years.

Maxwell had run the half mile segment of the distance medley race for Westmoor, and set the crowd buzzing by coming from dead last into the lead with a 1:55.7 split. Westmoor (10:35.05) finished second to Eisenhower (10:26.59).

San Carlos High junior Rick Luttrell turned in a fine performance in the 440 intermediate hurdles. Favorite Andre Phillips of Silver Creek, one of the nation's top low hurdlers, won as expected in a meet record 53.41.

But Luttrell, who has been competing in so many events for San Carlos that he hasn't really been able to specialize, was the only one who could stay close to Phillips. Luttrell's 54.89, which would be a good mark even in a JC race, was good for an easy second place.

Phillips also won the 110 meter high hurdles in 14.24. M-A's Richard Clark, who won his heat in 14.48, finished third in the finals with a 14.44 clocking.

M-A's Paul Bates, the national prep long jump leader entering the meet, won the event easily at 23-7, almost a foot and a half ahead of the second-place finisher.

Serramonte High's Lorens Lebherz, who has gone up against Bates before with respect, uncorked a 47-9½ triple jump (not far short of the 47-11¼ that earned him a place in last year's state meet). Lebherz finished second. Bates was fourth at 46-7¼, short of his season best.

Serramonte was edged by a hundredth of a second by old rival Mt. Pleasant in the 440 relay (the Regents had beaten Mt. Pleasant in a quarter relay earlier in the season). Pittsburgh won in 42.77; MP was third in 43.00 and Serramonte fourth in 43.01.

Carlmont junior Bob Love was third in the two mile (9:15.4 behind the 9:11.69 of Eisenhower's Frank Assumma).

College of San Mateo's Skip Peterson long jumped 24-6¾, wind-aided, to finish second in the JC division, seven inches behind East LA's Bobby Jones.

San Mateo High grad Sylvester Pritchett, who took a fairly casual attitude toward track in high school (basketball was, and still is, the No. 1 sport for him) competes for Santa Ana now. He finished third in the high jump at 6-9 (he has a best of 6-10).

The crowd-pleasing races were the open sprints. Houston McTear tore everybody up in the 100-meter dash, including Olympic medalist Don Quarrie, who said he wasn't in top shape yet and almost lost his stride on the bouncy new San Jose City College track.

But the 100 was nothing compared to the 200, in which (relatively) unsung JC sprinter Derald Harris from Los Medanos smoked a stellar field — including McTear.

Harris had won easily; both Times trackside watches stopped him in 19.8. At first, before the crowd got to him, Harris was as matter-of-fact as all the others. "To me it was just another race," he said, after being informed of the 19.8 clocking. "That was it."

But the scene changed. His father came up and threw an arm around his shoulders; an official announced that the hand time was indeed 19.8. Harris' father and a friend were near tears.

The news came over the loudspeaker . . . the official electronic timing was 20.01, and there had been a 5.6 mph wind, so the mark would go in the books as wind-aided. But it was still the fastest 200 meters run anywhere in the world in five years.

A Triple Play in SSF Tilt

Not even a triple play could save San Carlos High's baseball team from a defeat Friday at the hands of South City. South San Francisco topped the Dons 4-2 to take the consolation title of the South San Francisco Invitational Baseball Tournament at Orange Park.

In fact, South City scored the first run of the ball game despite the triple play.

South City filled the bases in the third inning on a base-on-balls to Greg Romer, a base hit by Jim Serrata and a bunt single by Tiger Delacruz (who wound up with three hits).

Matt Allio then hit a "double play" ball to shortstop Gary Davenport with Romer scampering in from third. San Carlos converted the double play and then first baseman Joe Peterson nailed Serrata (who tried to score from second) at the plate.

South City went on to score a single run in the fourth and two in the fifth to take a 4-1 lead.

Allio got into trouble in the fifth as San Carlos loaded the bases with nobody on it.

EXERCISING FOR RELAXATION

Men, women and children are invited to exercise classes in Daly City given by Jinx for $10 for four lessons. Classes are held Mondays and Wednesday from 12:30 to 2 p.m. To sign up, call Jinx before 9 a.m. or after 9:30 p.m. at 992-6399.

Girls Volleyball Season Begins

League play began recently in the Daly City Recreation Department's Girls Volleyball Leagues.

The latest results:

Fourth grade: On Friday night the OLM Whites behind fine performances by Raquel Dahud, Melissa Rainey and Debbie Passanisi defeated the St. Andrews Scots 15-3, 15-3.

On Saturday the SAL Stompers behind Jackie Fernandez, Monica Pocelli and Denise Patch defeated the Holy Angels Chipmunks 15-8, 15-7.

In an exciting match the OLM Whites prevailed over the OLM Reds 16-14, 11-15, 15-3. The "Whites" were led by Jenny Pult and Christina Flores, while Marie Newhoff was outstanding for the Reds in a losing cause.

Fifth grade: The Superstars edged the Panthers in three games, 15-13, 14-16, 16-4. Diana Lammori and Lupe Huerto led the way for the Superstars while Angela Roscelli's fine play paced the Panthers. In other action, the Scots downed Holy Angels 15-6, 15-6 behind the outstanding performances of Silvia Martinez and Gina Guiva, Chris Guima played well for the Holy Angels.

Sixth grade: The Scots topped Holy Angels 15-13 and 15-3 while the Saints upset the OLM Whites in 3 games, 15-9, 11-15 and 16-14. Leading the Saints were Diane Carrara and Celeste Ascutio while Joyce Walsh and Natlie Melendez did especially well for OLM.

Seventh grade: OLM bested the SAL Hotshots 15-4, 15-6. OLM's Mary Curran served for 9 points as her team-mate Kathy Cooney and SAL's Elizabeth Rascelli each went for 10 points. In other action Holy Angels was defeated by the OLM Reds 15-0 and 15-3. Kathy Jacknich of OLM was high with 8 points.

Alicia Bailey, Yvonne Casperson, and Dolly Casperson led BYA to a 15-7, 15-3 defeat of OLPH.

Eighth grade: The OLM Reds led by the blistering serve of Cathy Gibney and the excellent all around play of Ruth Pinelli crushed the St. Andrews Scots in consecutive games 15-0, 15-1. Marla Anders played well for St. Andrews in a losing cause.

The St. Thomas More Saints got off on the right foot Friday night by defeating OLPH in the opening game for both games in the Girls 8th Grade Volleyballl action.

For SSF Tourney Title

SH Downs 'Depleted' Scots

By JOHN MURPHY

It was a bit anticlimatic but satisfying nonetheless for Sacred Heart's baseball team as the Irish downed Carlmont 5-1 Saturday at Orange Park to capture the South San Francisco Invitational Baseball Tournament.

The tourney championship was Sacred Heart's fourth in the 23-year history of the annual event. It was also the third peninsula prep tourney won by a West Catholic Athletic League team this week.

Carlmont, for various reasons, was missing several players from its regular starting lineup. However nothing could be taken away from a solid Sacred Heart club which had proved its worth by routing El Camino on Wednesday 11-1.

The Scots went with No. 3 pitcher Craig Courchaine, normally a center fielder. Rich Sentman, who had pitched a no-hitter his previous outing, was being saved for Carlmont's South Peninsula Athletic League contest Tuesday against red-hot Sequoia (which has won six straight).

Courchaine didn't do badly but he didn't get much help. Four errors were committed behind him. Only one SH run was earned. And Carlmont probably wouldn't have scored at all except for an error by the Irish.

There was nothing at all tainted about Sacred Heart's first run though as first baseman Nick Toboni singled and then was doubled home by Joe Carrozzi.

Carlmont's first crucial error came in the third inning as speedster Matt Gallegos reached base on a dropped third strike. Two outs later SH power hitter Ron Busalocchi muscled one over the left field barrier and the Irish led 3-0.

The Scots tallied their only run in the fourth when Steve Humeny's long fly ball to left center got misplayed into a triple with Humeny scampering home on a bad relay from the shortstop.

SH then picked up two runs in the bottom of the inning on two hits, a pair of errors and a well-executed squeeze play to put the game away.

Sacred Heart, which has an abundance of consistent but not overpowering hurlers, got another good pitching performance in this game. Southpaw Ken Viola went six strong innings surrendering four hits and helped his own cause by picking off two Scot baserunners.

In the preliminary game, a battle for third place, El Camino whipped Balboa 12-0 and unveiled yet another good pitcher in Steve Wilson.

Wilson went five impressive innings, striking out six and giving up just three hits. Rich Bordi, who hasn't yielded a run all season, picked up the save.

El Camino put the game away early scoring 10 runs (seven of them unearned) in the first three innings. All-Tourney selection Rick Doran led the Colts' 12-hit attack with three hits and two runs-batted-in. Camino used all 20 of its players in the contest.

DC Superstars Win

The Daly City Recreation Department held its first Annual "Superstars" competition March 28 through April 2 at all parks and playgrounds. The "Superstars" contest was a combination of ten events: softball throw, frisbee throw, football kick, 50 yard dash, obstacle course, soccer obstacle course, standing broad jump, football throw, basketball free throw, shooting and dribbling with a soccer ball. Points were given to the individual participants for efficiency in each category.

Children from first grade up to and including high school age participated in the contest. The divisions were: third grade and under, fourth and fifth graders, sixth graders, seventh and eighth graders and high school. Each division winner on a city wide basis, received a Warrior T-shirt for an all-out effort. All who participated in the contest received certificates.

The city wide winners were: third grade and under — first place, Steven Brennan, M. H. Tobias playground; second place, Mike Kearns, George Washington playground; third place, Bobby Pitruzello, Marchbanks Park. Fourth and fifth grade — first place, Mark Williams, George Washington playground; second place, Kevin Brennan, M. H. Tobias Playground; third place — Bob Carrozi, Daniel Webster Playground. Sixth grade — first place — Danny Brennan, M. H. Tobias Playground; second place — Tony Guillory, M. H. Tobias Playground; third place — Junior Dizon, Skyline Playground. Seventh and eighth grade — first place — Robert Tkoma, Skyline Playground; second place — Nathan Apple, Daniel Webster Playground; third place — Rudy Llora, Daniel Webster Playground. High School — first place — Mike Tapella, M. H. Tobias Playground; second place — Dwayne Curng, Skyline Playground; third place — Robin Dews, Lincoln Park.

Westlake Teams Battle As Canada Trip Nears

Under 12s. Westlake Raiders 4 — Westlake Rowdies 0.

With their eagerly awaited international trip to Vancouver, Canada, in mind, the two teams from the Westlake Internationals Youth Soccer Club of Daly City battled each rather gently but true to the spirit of the game.

The discipline instilled into those 36 players by coaches Vidosh, Rosales, Hughes and Giroldi was reflected in excellent teamwork. There is much evidence that their Canadian hosts from the Willingdon Soccer Club will be surprised at the Westlakers progress since last April. Departure day from S.F. Internatinal Airport is April 15 and the first flight and bordercrossing for most of these youngsters.

As for the game, the Raiders set the pace to make sure of second place in Flame league competition. The scoring began as Marc Vidosh sent a pass from Marc Rosales into the net. A Mixup in the Rowdies defense enabled Mark Giroldi to get goal number two.

Before the end of the second half Marc Rosales first timed a pass from winger John McLaughlin for goal three. Freely substituting in the second half the Raiders continued their attack. Mike Kennedy, moved from sweeper back to insider forward; scored the final tally on a solo run. Donald Osuna and Brian McNulty were hardworking midfielders that kept the forwards in motion. Steve Alt, Dave Carter, Themis Lonis, Kevin Massey, Rob Tindall and goalie Paul Newman capably rounded out the Raiders.

For the Rowdies, mostly a year younger than their clubmates and opponents, goalie Jerry Neves played well despite the score. Paul Inocencio at centerback kept getting the ball upfield despite continuous pressure. Fullback Joe Curran cleared well. Erick Quesada broke up attacks but delayed his forward passes too long. Steve Jensen, winger, impressed with his quickness and dribbling skill. Melvin Fogle in midfield had speed but needs ball control. Jim Toner and Scott Dake were subdued by the Raiders defense and unable to develop their usual agressive forward play. Laura Hughes, Rich Espinoza, Rich Baddeley, Rich Neves and Drake Franklin did their supporting best, but the absence of regulars Marty Zelaya and Jim Dekalaita was significant in the Rowdies defense. The Rowdies finished in fourth place after three months of league competition.

Supervisors Get EOC Reorganization Plan

By RICK SULLIVAN

A major reorganization of the county Economic Opportunity Commission has been recommended by George Riley, newly appointed director of Community Services.

The EOC is a quasi-independent commission which administers educational, nutritional and training programs for low-income residents.

In what seems to be a direct managerial response to a budget overexpenditure last year of $116,877 by the EOC, Riley has suggested that the Board of Supervisors exercise greater control over the commission's fiscal matters. He has additionally asked that he be allowed to appoint the EOC executive director.

Riley, himself a former EOC director, presented his reorganization plan to the supervisors this week. With him were EOC commissioners and staff members ready to defend the present structure of the little known agency which this year is operating with a $2.6 million budget.

Neither Riley nor the EOC attendees were allowed much time to address the supervisors. They postponed major discussion of the plan until they had studied the EOC response to Riley's proposal.

Only supervisor James Fitzgerald bluntly called for the immediate endorsement of the proposed reorganization.

"This is not a complicated decision," he remarked. "The EOC should be a part of the county operation. . . . We've got to get a hold on this (commission) and we can't allow it to go over budget."

Last November Riley was named acting director of the Community Services Department — a super agency which oversees such sub-departments as libraries, weights and measures, veterans services and EOC.

Riley has direct control over all the divisions except EOC.

It is apparent he feels somewhat uncomfortable being held responsible for the activities of a commission over which he has little or no control.

The EOC was created by the board in 1968 following the enactment of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. The act, a part of President Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty Program, provided funds and established regulations with the following objectives:

—To provide funds for new programs for preschool education, legal assistance, employment and training plus other self-help services.

—To bring low income individuals into the planning and decision making process for the programs.

—To advocate on behalf of low income people in government and private enterprise for assistance and changes which would benefit low income people.

The board created a commission comprised of representatives of the minority community. It also labeled the commission an "administering board" giving it certain exclusive decision-making authority regarding grant money expenditures, agreements, hiring and program responsibility.

Over the years, the EOC has administered such programs as the federally-funded Head Start Program, a senior citizens nutrition program — which now serves 700 seniors county-wide — plus many other programs.

Riley's reorganization report to the supervisors points out that there is a "myth and conflict" surrounding the EOC as it is presently structured.

He noted that while EOC is granted some independence once its legal status, according to the district attorney's office, is that of a county operation.

"It (EOC) has been considered," stated Riley, "both as separate from the county and as a part of the county."

Because legally EOC is part of the county, Riley theorized that the county is now liable to cover the $116,877 overexpenditure that was incurred last year.

"There are no special grants, supplemental income sources or other revenue that can cover such a deficit," he said, "unless of course the individual commissioners. . . . are held accountable. Therefore the county is ultimately liable."

The EOC deficit was discovered in an audit last year. The audit showed that commissioners and program personnel overran budgets in grants from the community services administration, general federal revenue sharing and the State Board of Education.

Riley said in his report that former County Manager M.D. Tarshes reported to the Board of Supervisors last year that the overexpenditures resulted from "inadequate attention to budget responsibility, little interest in understanding the implications of continuing deficits and an unwillingness to try to understand the work with accounting reports which were available."

Riley stated in his report that the board's delegation of authority has effectively removed EOC activities from the normal review which applies in every other county program.

He recommended reorganization measures which include:

—Covering the EOC deficit by a supplemental county appropriation of $42,133 for food stamps and to handle the balance of $74,744 through reduced county appropriatins of about $24,915 in each of the next three years.

—Withdraw certain authorities now delegated to EOC mainly those concerning appointment of the director and the final decision on grants, budget and contracts.

The EOC recently met at a special session to discuss Riley's proposal. Commissioner Dolores Randall read a four-page statement cautioning the board that to clip the wings of the EOC would ultimately be to the detriment of low income people.

"EOC has never had a general feeling that the county cared about it or that EOC was high on the county priority list," she read.

"It causes the commission and EOC general disquiet that now the county will solve deficit problems, staff problems, state problems and long range funding problems by folding the small agency into the super bureaucratic structure."

Ms. Randall emphasized that the EOC incurred its deficit "much in the same manner as other county departments and agencies" have in the past.

She added that the commission has been allowed to act as a policy body and that the reorganization plan "will destroy that role for the only organization in the county which has a mandate to represent and involve poor and the low income, the elderly and the youth."

"EOC cannot anticipate greater concern for the poor by San Mateo County which is already overloaded by a super bureaucratic structure and inherent funding and taxing problems which are volatile."

The supervisors will evaluate Riley's proposal at a meeting April 28.

Bulbs Please With Little Care

By IVA NEWMAN

Among the plants that have given us a great deal of pleasure throughout our years of gardening on the Peninsula are the summer flowering bulbs. These bulbs seem to take so little care and they give so much in the way of beauty and color that we would like to pass along some that we have grown and enjoyed. Not all of these are true bulbs but they are all handled like bulbs in that you plant a dry-looking root with scales and it could be a corm, rhizome, tuber or tuberous root.

A couple of things that we had to learn by growing these bulbs, that differed from the charts, is that in our windy garden, surrounded by an oak forest, we had to plant most bulbs a bit deeper than planting charts recommended and also, due to the natural area which surrounded us, most bulbs had to be planted in wire baskets to keep them from becoming dessert for a gopher's dinner. The only bulb that they haven't destroyed so far are daffodils, and we have been told that if they get hungry enough they will even eat these.

One of the first "bulbs" that we began growing was the beareded iris, which is grown from a rhizome and gets its name from the hairy-like growth, called a beard, on the falls. The early-flowering types are just beginning to bloom and some nurseries grow these in gallon cans so the customers can see the flower form and color. We found that this iris needed to be planted with a half-inch of soil over the top of the rhizome instead of leaving the top of the rhizome exposed as recommended by some growers.

Lillies Special

Lillies were our special joy as we knew Jan de Graaff, the famous lily grower and hybridizer and had visited him at his home in Oregon. We started with Easter lillies and found that they did excellently the first year but disappeared during the winter without leaving a trace.

Gophers are particularly fond of lilies so the only way to preserve a planting of lilies is to plant the bulbs in wire baskets, or pots. The baskets are made of 12- to 18-inch-wide wire mesh with openings no larger than one inch. Be sure to make the baskets deep enough to fold over the planted bulb, as gophers will climb over the top to get at the bulbs. And, make them at least one foot in diameter so the bulb will have room to multiply. Don't worry about the lily stem getting through the wire on top as they always find a way.

Lilies like an airy soil with plenty of humus to hold moisture around the bulb but good drainage, that is slightly on the acid side. The depth of planting depends on the rooting habit of the bulb. Bulbs that produce roots from the base of the bulb can be planted with a two- to 3-inch covering of soil but stem rooting varieties should be planted approximately six inches deep.

Lilies never go dormant, so bulbs should never be left out of the ground any longer than absolutely necessary. We found that if we placed a tablespoon of 7-40-6 magamp an inch or so under the bulbs both stems and flowers were improved. The improvement has been so noticeable that we now put a spoonfull of this non-burning fertilizer under every bulb of every kind that we plant.

Men's Garden Club To Hear Author

The Men's Garden Club of San Mateo County will have Albert Wilson, Bay Area author and horticulturist, as speaker for their April meeting, Thursday, April 14, at the Black Angus Restaurant in San Mateo.

Wilson will speak on "Spring Chores that Improve Summer Gardens." As author of the book "How Does Your Garden Grow," now in its ninth printing, Wilson is a well-known speaker throughout California. He is also known for his TV appearances expanding on topics pursuant to "Your Garden."

For the sixth consecutive year the Men's Garden Club will present a plant sale. The sale features a wide variety of flowers, vegetables, shrubs and house plants as grown by members of the club. Sale Chairmen Bill Wade and Bob Goldberg have announced that the sale will go on again this year at the Borel Square in San Mateo and will include not only locally grown plants but will feature experts in gardening to answer questions and advise on how to grow and cultivate the plants purchased.

The Men's Garden Club of San Mateo County is an incorporated, nonprofit organization for men who are interested in their gardens. As a nonprofessional club the emphasis is on learning how to improve gardening efforts, from the small window box gardener, to the most ambitious estate gardener.

Nuggets Offered For Big Pumpkin

The Master Nurserymens Association, through its affiliates, the Burlingame Garden Center of Burlingame and the Christensen Nursery of Belmont, are sponsoring a Grow-For-Gold pumpkin growing contest that will bring the top winner real gold nuggets worth more than $250.

The contest is open to adults as well as children. Interested gardeners may pick up their entry blanks at either of the above nurseries. These nurseries already have entry blanks, growing instructions and seeds no hand ready for contestants.

Here on the Peninsula, seeds should be planted in May or June but be sure to get your contest entry blank filled out and in by the July 15 deadline.

Seeds should be planted in areas where they will receive sun all day, if possible. Remember to allow at least an eight-foot square for each vine. Be sure to ask your nurseryman how the soil should be prepared for the growing of a winning pumpkin, and consult him about all the stages of growing so you won't skip some seemingly minor job that might keep you from winning the nuggets.

Follow the instructions carefully that come with your entry blank. In fact, you should write down any special instructions the nurseryman gives you and keep them in a convenient place where you can consult them frequently. And good luck to you.

Drought Is Cause of Pest Damage

The California drought is causing unusual pest damage to pine trees, says Cooperative Entomologist William R. Bowen, Riverside.

The University of California insect expert said the combination of a mild winter and lack of rain seems to be responsible for an extraordinary amount of spider mite damage to pine needles.

"If the needles show flecking, stippling, or a bleached look, and later turn brown and drop off, chances are the tree has a spider mite infestation," said Bowen.

CLOSE-TRIMMED FOR BETTER VALUE

Our famous close-trim method removes excessive fat and bone before weighing so that you can get more meat to eat for your money. This method also helps assure you each mature beef cut will cook just right.

GUARANTEED TO PLEASE

We spare no effort in bringing you fine mature beef. But we go beyond that. We unconditionally guarantee your satisfaction in every way or your money is promptly and courteously refunded.

AGED FOR GREATER TENDERNESS

Safeway's aging of selected mature beef cuts is still another extra step designed to assure top tenderness, flavor, and eating goodness.

BAKING UP A STORM

Mrs. Howard Poblitz, Cindy Sariotti and Mrs. Albert Fambrini (left to right) are busy making cakes for the Sweets Booth for Our Lady of Mercy's annual Festival which will be held in the parish hall, May 5 through 8.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

The Easter bunny has come and gone, leaving us with some brightly colored eggs decorating the refrigerator, jelly beans hither and yon and a bit of left-over ham.

I'm sure the children will help you get rid of the jelly beans and eggs, so my offering will be a suggestion for a way to use those last bits of ham to the best advantage.

HAM AND CHEESE NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 package (12 oz.) wide noodles
2½ cups diced cooked ham
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
One-third cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups (1 pint) dairy sour cream
2 green pepper rings for garnish

Cook the 12 ounces noodles according to directions on package; drain.

In large bowl, toss together the drained noodles, two and one-half cups cooked ham, two cups shredded Swiss cheese, one-third cup green pepper, two tablespoons chopped onion and one teaspoon salt. Gently blend in the pint of sour cream. Turn into buttered two-quart casserole.

Bake in 375 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes or until cheese melts and casserole is heated enough. Top with green pepper rings.

Serves 6 to 8.

With Easter vacation ending, some cookies for lunch boxes might be just the thing you are considering. Try these rich and tasty squares made especially good with wheat germ and chopped pecans.

FROSTED WHEAT GERM SQUARES

2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
¾ cup brown sugar (packed)
1 teaspoons vanilla extract
One-third cup flour
⅛ teasoon soda
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup vacuum packed wheat germ
½ cup chopped pecans
Several candied cherries, for garnish

Beat the two tablespoons butter until soft. Beat in the two eggs, three-fourths cup brown sugar and one teaspoon vanilla. Stir in the third cup flour mixed with the eighth teaspoon each soda and salt. Mix in the half cup each of wheat germ and chopped pecans. Pour into greased nine-inch square baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 13 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Cool and frost. Cut into 1½ inch squares when frosting is almost set. Decorate each square with a quarter candied cherry, pressing in lightly.

FROSTING

1 cup powdered sugar
5 teaspoons milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Mix the one cup sifted powdered sugar with the five teaspoons milk and fourth teaspoon vanilla. Add a drop or two of food coloring if desired, and spread over cooled cookies.

ALL SET TO ENTERTAIN

Thornton Beach Lightly Used

Thornton State Beach is a relatively small, lightly used state park, according to Chief Ranger Alan Scheibla of the State Department of Parks and Recreation, San Mateo Coast.

It's the closest state beach to San Francisco; so, it gets visitors from the city.

But from July 1975 to July 1976 Thornton recorded 117,000 visitors, while the state beach at San Gregorio had more than five times that number, Scheibla said.

Part of the reason is that Thornton has a $1.50 per car a day charge and San Gregorio does not, he noted.

A fee is charged at Thornton because it is "a completely developed beach with rest rooms and parking," Scheibla explained.

Still, he said, a fee probably would not be collected in the late afternoon near closing time. The park is open from 8 a.m. until sunset.

Fishermen, particularly, like to purchase a $15 annual pass so they can use the park year-round at a lesser fee.

"When the stripers start running in the summer, it will get busy," Scheibla said.

The park consists of 50 coastside acres and was acquired by the state from San Mateo County in 1956.

Ocean's Roar... Real Quietude

By NANCY STANCILL

It's late afternoon in Daly City.

Traffic is bad. Even on the city's quieter residential streets, drivers are in hurry. People are tired and impatient.

But just off bustling John Daly Boulevard lies an oasis of quiet.

Thornton State Beach is a place where a few people go to unwind at the end of a busy day.

It's one of the few tranquil spots in a highly compacted city.

The small sign at the end of John Daly Boulevard leads down a winding road to the park. There's no one at the ranger station; so, the visitor is free to park a car without charge.

The usual park facilities — picnic tables, rest rooms and paved parking — are kept at a minimum. The main attraction is the beach.

The cliff beside the parking lot offers a steep path to the stretch of beach below. A solitary jogger sprints across the sand.

Instead of the traffic noises, the calming ocean roar fills the air.

The hiking trails along the cliffs offer relative solitude. The sandy paths are still damp from recent rains and no one else is walking.

A pair of lovers sit on a grassy knoll and talk. The young man scowls at any passersby who might disturb their quiet interlude.

Further along the path, three young boys fly a motorized model airplane. Over and over it spins in the air briefly and they excitedly discuss its performance.

Nearby, a middle-aged man scans the sea with his binoculars. He's unhurried and methodical.

From a steeper cliff, an elderly man with a cane allows his eager dog to scamper half way down the hill before he calls him back.

But the sun is shining on just one patch of the gray sea now and it's getting colder. Late afternoon is turning quickly to early evening and the few visitors show signs of leaving.

The worst of the rush hour traffic is over and the park soon will be closing.

And the visitors have managed a brief period of solitude to refresh them for another busy day.

Pacifica's 'Hold-the-Line' Budget

A proposed 1977-78 budget was distributed to the Pacifica City Council Monday night, with a memo from City Manager Don Weidner that its "hold-the-line" policy was the result of a council directive of last December.

The council had been forewarned of a dramatic increase in assessed valuation. Early figures show the average increase in residential assessed value in Pacifica to be 37.5 per cent.

The council agreed to a suggestion by Councilman Stan Farber that a copy of the cost revenue analysis showing the need for increased assessments be distributed to other governmental agencies that affect the tax rate.

"Otherwise, we're going to get blamed for a bix tax increase," he said. Farber noted that the city is responsible for less than 20 per cent of the final tax figure.

Copies of the proposed budget may be reviewed at the library of at the finance office, 170 Santa Marie Ave. Copies may be purchased at the finance office for $2.

The council will discuss the budget this weekend. Preliminary sections (pages b through ggg) will be considered Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Departmental budgets will be the topic on Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"You guys realize that's going to wreck my anniversary, don't you?" remarked Savage.

"It's not just yours," said Mayor Sidney Lorvan.

"It's yours, too?" asked Savage.

"No, it's your wife's, too," answered Lorvan.

About Ready to Turn Off the Blinking Light

By JANET PARKER

Barbara Hitchcock has been hearing bells in South San Francisco for 18 years.

The City Hall switchboard operator answered her last phone call and saw her last blinking light Friday as she began her retirement.

That's when the city also lost its local reference desk. Since she began working at the Grand Avenue building in 1958, Mrs. Hitchcock has been directing residents to the proper city departments, fielding questions about city services and serving as a living directory.

"Some people think I should know everything," Mrs. Hitchcock said between calls.

She and her husband, Elmer, who also is retiring from his San Francisco service station business, have lived in South San Francisco for 30 years. During that time, she's accumulated the tidbits of information about the city that eventually someone finds useful.

Some South San Franciscans, she said, have called her to find out the phone numbers of local merchants.

She's rerouted many confused callers who were trying to locate the South San Francisco courthouse.

And, often, she said, she has simply had to help some irate citizen simmer down while she finds the right city official to hear his complaint.

"You learn how to handle people," she said. Often she is the first person a City Hall visitor sees when entering the building — and she's the first one to hear about a problem.

There have been times when people have walked in shaking with anger and threatening to sue the city unless their crisis is resolved. She's guided them to the city engineer, the director of public services or whoever is in charge. The residents often have returned to thank her for the assistance.

Mrs. Hitchcock didn't even know it last month when a man holding two South San Franciscans hostage in a nearby apartment called the switchboard several times asking for the Police Department.

He sounded just like any other caller, she said.

She's been running switchboards for 42 years. Earlier, she was employed at Guy F. Atkinson Co., Arabian-American Oil Co., and the office of the U.S. President in San Francisco in World War II.

Her hands have been in more than the City Hall switchboard over the last 18 years. She is credited with developing the first official postcard for the city (a color scene of City Hall at night), with leading the local Salvation Army units in recent years, with being an active member of the South San Francisco Bicentennial Committee and with singing in the city's bicentennial pageant, the "Footlight Follies."

From her seat in City Hall, she's seen many poor people and she's become interested in their plight.

Her biggest worry over the years, she said, is that she won't be able to connect a caller fast enough during an emergency. If only more residents would jot down the direct police hot-line number, valuable seconds would be saved, she added.

Her fellow employes at City Hall have planned a retirement dinner in her honor on April 14 at a local restaurant. Thirteen of her 16 grandchildren are planning to be there to help her celebrate.

Another switchboard operator once told her she should be able to say "thank you" even if someone tells her on the phone where to go in no uncertain terms.

She learned her lesson well. She recalls one time she picked up the phone to hear a woman utter a profanity because she had gotten the wrong number.

Mrs. Hitchcock simply responded, "Oh, thank you. Can I help you?"

Over-market Prices for Youth at Palace

Topped by a record-breaking $15.50 per pound for the grand champion steer, California youth received over-market prices averaging 25.7 cents and totalling $254,331 at the recently concluded Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition at the San Francisco Cow Palace. Show officials termed the event "the best ever in our 31-year history."

As a comparison, at last year's show, over-market prices averaged 16.4 cents. Thus, this year's Junior Grand National provided a percentage increase in excess of 33 per cent.

Show manager Darrel Chapman was enthusiastic over the results of the beef, lamb, and swine auctions. "Harold Goehring of Victor's Meats/Goehring's Meat Products of Modesto paid $3.75 per pound for young Paul Alberti's Grand Champion," said Chapman, "and James Allan and Sons paid $3 per pound for the Reserve Champion. The hog auction was our best ever, and that enthusiasm carried over to the lamb and steer auctions the following day.

"The day after the swine auction, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saroff of South San Francisco (he is with Concession and Program Local 468) paid $10 per pound for Vicki Burnett's Grand Champion lamb, and the Cow Palace Auction Support Committee backed that up by going for $7 per pound for Dennis Sonnenburg's Reserve Champion.

"But the main event was still to come. Carl Zwissig, Sunol rancher, and Don Moore, owner of the Scuttlebutt restaurant in Mountain View, bid for the Grand Champion Steer, exhibited by 18-year-old Patricia Gardner of Sisquoc, Calif.

"Last year our champion went for $3.10, and our highest ever was $4.25," added Chapman. "The bidding passed the old record in quick fashion, and went to $7, $8, $9, $10, and then, bit by bit, to $15.25 by Don Moore. Zwissig bid $15.50, and Moore stopped.

"All the while, the young crowd was cheering enthusiastically, and Miss Gardner standing in the ring with her champion steer, was overcome with emotion. The final bid was almost four times the previous record, and it was an event those in attendance will never forget."

Miss Gardner received a check for almost $17,000. A Hancock College student in Santa Marie, she indicated she wanted to go to Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo this past year, but could not afford it. "I'm going now," she beamed, as she pocketed the huge check.

Swine gross was $51,002, an average price of 59½ cents per pound for 391 hogs — 21 cents over market price, as compared to 12 cents last year.

Lamb gross was $44,353, an average price of 85.9 cents per pound for 526 lambs — 35.9 cents over market price, as compared to 25.3 cents last year.
